COLD WINTER, LATE SPRING DAMAGE CROPS

Farms Hit Hard By Cantankerous Nature

Pottstown area shoppers and farmers can prepare to take their belts in a notch and dig deeper into their pocketbooks this Summer.

Farm agents in Montgomery, Chester and Berks counties said Friday a cold Winter, killing frosts and a late Spring teamed up to make this year one of the poorest crop producers in the past 10 years.

Hardest hit will be the oats harvest. Usually the third largest in the area, it will be practically none existent this year.

Green vegetables, tomatoes and fresh fruit also will be scarce. Prices of corn, peaches and tomatoes were expected to be as much as 25 percent higher this Summer.

ALSO DAMAGED were shrubs. Boxwood, azaleas, barberry and Juliana suffered the worst damage as a result of soggy weather and untimely frosts.

Dogwood Blossoms Make Spectacular Display on Estate

Rising pink and white like the delicate trees of a Japanese painting, are hundreds of dogwood tree blossoms on the rich green lawns of the Gruber estates.

Long a mecca to flower lovers all over the East, the trees, now in full bloom, are expected to attract thousands of visitors.

The display, which is open to the public going along Route 183, is the floral showplace of the Pottstown area.

Set against the rich bucolic beauty of Robin Hood green pines and the rolling lawns, the dogwoods stand out in striking prominence. The white and pink blossoms are almost too candy-like to be real.

But they are real. The estate

CD 'Symphony' Is Scheduled For Saturdays

Music to eat lunch by—a regular Saturday noon concert sponsored by the borough—will be expanded.

And not because of popular appeal!

The 80-second serenade of the borough's two fire horns — atop borough hall and Washington Hill — will be joined each week by one of the four civil defense sirens.

Today the CD soloist will be the Fiest street soprano; next week the Washington Hill basso profundo and the following week the borough hall bass—if it's working.

THE BOROUGH hall siren became ill during the recent civil defense alert, but medical bulletins say its delicate throat should be back in shape by May 27.

The Rosedale drive horn, however, has been out of order for more than a year and isn't expected to make another appearance before the public until July 22. On that date—or as soon after as possible—it will take its regular turn every fourth week.

And in addition to improving the quantity of syncopation, the CD sirens will also increase the length of the test. The fire horns now duet for 90 seconds. The CD sirens will join along for the first 90 seconds then solo for the next 90 seconds.

Happy luncheon.

TELETYPES INSTALLED AT HOSPITALS

Hookups Will Speed Information On Blue Cross

The age of electronics was introduced into both local hospitals Friday with the installation of teletype machines feeding directly into Blue Cross headquarters in Philadelphia.

Purpose of the machines, installed in the administrative offices of Pottstown and Memorial hospitals, is to speed up the process for determining eligibility and type of coverage for a Blue Cross subscriber.

LeRoy Doerrmann, assistant administrator at Pottstown hospital, said the time saving with the new machine would be as much as four days.

"Under the old system," Doerrmann said, "we would have to send a typed admission form to Blue Cross headquarters by mail. At Philadelphia, information on the form would be manually transferred to a punch card and then sent to the file section, where the account would be pulled and run through IBM equipment to determine eligibility and type coverage. Afterwards, the information would be typed up and sent back to us by mail. This process, of course, would take at least four or five days. With the new equipment, we can get the same information in a matter of four to five hours."

AT MEMORIAL hospital, Assistant Administrator H. Forrest Acker also had words of praise for the new system. Acker said the use of the teletype machine would particularly im-

SUNSHINE IS EXPECTED LATER TODAY

Foggy, Damp Morning Is Forecast

Will we ever get two sunny days in a row? This seems to be the Springtime question in Pottstown lately.

Residents looking forward to a day or two of sunny weather this weekend will have to keep on looking.

Despite peering with a gloomy eye on the coming days, the weatherman has granted the possibility of a little sun this afternoon.

"We had 20 rainy days in April," he recounts. "But May is rapidly overtaking it. Eight out of ten days so far have been rainy or cloudy."

THIS IS no comforting fact to residents, whose spirits and plans have been drenched by the long bout of cold, continual rain and cloudy days. Only the green leaves and blooming flowers give proof that Mother Nature is not taking us in one giant step from Winter to Summer with no Spring.

'We only had one 100 percent sunny day in April," the weatherman continues. "That was on April 20 I hope we get more than one day this month."

He is not the only one who is hoping. Pottstonians have a difficult time remembering when they had two sunny days together. But it was not so long ago — April 23 and 24, to be exact.

One Pottstown resident was heard to remark on Friday: "They must have got the months mixed up somewhere. If this is May flowers weather — we're going to be sproutin' water lilies all over town!"

In addition to the water lilies, umbrella salesmen are likely to be sprouting this morning as the rainclouds remain with us. The morning will be foggy and damp until noon, at which time the fog will clear and the day will become warmer.

The temperature is expected to rise to 74, bringing with it some sun.

But scattered showers or a thundershower are expected to return by late afternoon. The expected low is 55, and scattered thundershowers may be expected again tomorrow.

THOUSANDS EXPECTED TO SEE PARADE

First Pottstown Patrol March Set For 9 A. M.

STATE POLICE RODEO FOLLOWS EVENT

Does everybody love a parade? Residents of Pottstown will find it difficult to ignore one today. At the stroke of 9 a.m., 2000 youthful feet will take the first brisk marching step up High street from Manatawny street—and the school safety patrol parade will have begun.

The order of their marching is listed on page 11. The 1200 safety patrolers and 800 members of bands are from 50 area schools.

After striding out High and Manatawny streets, the marchers will proceed up High street, color guards to the fore, school banners fluttering, and bands drumming out rousing marches.

The weatherman has presented the parade with a gloomy day, but officials have optimistically set no rain date for the march. They know it will take more than a little fog and a cloudy sky to dull the glow of colorful uniforms or diminish the luster of gleaming instruments.

The marchers will pass the

'PAPER TIGER' STATUS FEARED BY SCHWEIKER

Congressman Speaks At Linfield Meeting

By JOSEPH LYONS
(Mercury Staff Writer)

Rep. Richard S. Schweiker charged Friday night that American prestige is at its lowest point in years following the Cuban and Laos situations, and that "we will turn out to be the 'paper tigers' the Commnists accuse us of being unless we learn to draw the line."

"I don't think we have to take a world-wide poll to find out where our prestige stands," the Montgomery county Congressman told more than 300 persons at the Limerick Republican dinner dance in the Linfield fire hall.

Seizing upon one of the main points in the Kennedy campaign, he accused the administration of abolishing "prestige polls in the State department, after taking office, and charged the Democrats with the poor condition of America's prestige in the world today.

Blakely Killer Tried To Smother Victim

The killer made certain there wasn't a breath of life left in Mrs. Paige Russell Blakely.

He pulled a pale green embroidered spread from the bed, off her murdered husband's body, and pressed it in her face.

It was an unnecessary, brutal act.

His drugged and shot victims were already dead.

Police Chief Harold E. Hahn Friday revealed the attempt at suffocation.

"The killer may have thought she was still alive and tried to suffocate her. There's the possibility, too, that her eyes remained open in death and that unnerved the killer," he said.

The bedspread was found pressed over her face. Mr. Blakely's face was uncovered.

THE COUPLE was found dead March 28 in their home at 42 Chestnut street. Initially police suspected a murder-suicide case, but that was ruled out for three primary reasons.

1. The death weapon was never found.

2. The suffocation attempt. It would have been impossible for Mrs. Blakely to pull the spread from the bed and cover her face.

3. The couple was drugged. A near lethal dose of chloral hydrate was given to the Blakelys.

The Blakely deaths were premeditated murder, investigating authorities concluded Friday. Strong indications of this came from the fact, announced Friday, that "knockout drops" were used on the couple to make them unconscious before they were shot.

LARGE GERMAN SHEPHERD DOG ATTACKS BOY

Animal's Second Victim Suffers Leg Bites

A Pottstown man admitted Friday that his large German shepherd dog, which twice in the past year attacked and severely gashed visitors to the house, "is too dangerous to keep around any longer."

Donald Anderson said he would get rid of the dog—either by selling it or giving it away—late this month or early next month. It is expecting a litter of puppies toward the end of the month.

Meanwhile the dog's second victim, Eugene Oxenford, 435 May street, was reported "recovering slowly" at his home Friday night. The 11 year old youth was attacked Wednesday night when he visited Anderson's home at 123 West King street to borrow a shovel.

Oxenford said he visited the house to borrow a shovel to fill in some wet spots on one of the Memorial park baseball fields where he and several friends were playing ball. When he neared the house the dog attacked.

Anderson said he called the dog as soon as he heard the screams "but it was too late. The kid must have tried to pull away and the dog tore away the flesh. He was hurt worse than the first boy that was bitten."

THE FIRST victim was a Mercury newsboy, James Landis, of 329 West King street. He was attacked while making his rounds last Summer and suffered deep cuts of the left leg

Eugene Oxenford, 11, of 435 May street, is recovering in his home after being severely bitten by a huge German shepherd dog. The victim was the second boy to be bitten by the animal. Teacher to Scan Academy Hopefuls

A Pottstown High school teacher Friday was named as the first member of a selection board formed by Rep. Richard S. Schweiker "to determine the best candidates" for the five service academies.

The appointment was accepted by William H. McCabe, a social studies teacher and athletic coach for the past 25 years, "with deep gratitude."

The board, when completed in the near future, will include leading educators, prominent members of the clergy and graduates of the five service academies.

Rep. Schweiker explained that the board will select the "best possible applicants" on the basis of their academic records and leadership ability, and they in turn will be screened by the academies.

The board will conduct its organization meeting on May 29 in Norristown at which time Rep. Schweiker will explain its objectives and functions. But in a letter to McCabe, the 13th district Congressman explained the

AIRPORT JOB 2 DAYS FROM COMPLETION

Seeding of Field Will Begin Monday

Completion of the $230,000 Pottstown Municipal airport improvement program is just about two working days away, Airport Manager John Basco reported Friday.

"All that remains is the seeding of the field and the hooking up of the obstruction lights on the reservoir," he exlpained. "The seeding should be done in two days and the reservoir lights can be turned on in two minutes."

The seeding of the field will begin Monday morning. The obstruction lights were installed and completely wired last week and require only that current be furnished by the electric company, Basco explained.

The enlarged east-west runway — now 2700 feet long — was completed last November and medium intensity lights along the runway installed earlier this Spring. A final Federal Aviation agency check, however, will be required before regular night flights can be scheduled.

Also recently installed — and the cause for a dozen puzzled calls to The Mercury — is the 75 foot hazard beacon installed on Pool hill. The tall structure is topped by a two foot revolving red light to warn pilots of the hill.

Wet Ground Causes Halt in Street Work

Wet grounds from Thursday and Friday's rains forced Perkasie Contractor John Mayes to halt the Adams street blacktopping project until Monday, Public Works Director Earl J. Case said Friday.

"And if the rain keeps up over the weekend it may be even longer," he explained, "because it takes at least 24 hours of dry weather before the work can be started."

The blacktopping of Adams street from Jackson to Jefferson streets will be followed by the blacktopping of Beech street from North Hanover street to Manatawny street. Both projects were halted last December because of snow.

SCHOOL BOARD TENTATIVELY OKAYS BUDGET

Upper Pottsgrove To Retain Millage

A tentative budget of $232,208 was adopted by the members of the Upper Pottsgrove School board at their meeting in the elementary school.

The board also agreed to keep the same millage which is 50.

At its next meeting the board will discuss the adoption of the budget.

The bulk of the budget will go to the jointure for operation expenses.

thought Mr. Kennedy was trying to do a good job, although I disagreed with many of his policies," Schweiker said. "Tonight I think I have a right to say what I do not agree with, particularly in the area of foreign policy."

THE POLICIES with which Schweiker took issue were directly concerned with the handling of the Cuban and Laotian situations. He accused the administration of "talking loudly and carrying a little stick" in both Cuba and Laos.

"Four weeks ago," Schweiker said, "the President told the American people this country would not allow Communism to overrun Laos. Today, Secretary of State Dean Rusk cannot get to a peace conference table, and we can be sure that when peace finally is declared in Laos, the Communists will be in control. Already it seems that we have written off Laos, since Vice President Johnson is investigating matters in Viet Nam. I think the 'paper tiger' charge the Communists have hurled at this country is pretty well true."

Schweiker also had words of criticism for the Cuban invasion. He said the administration should have acted in one of two ways. "Either we should not have gone in at all, or we should have been prepared to back the invasion with strength, as we did in Lebanon."

He compared the handling of the Lebanon situation with that of Cuba, pointing out the preparedness of the Eisenhower administration to back with strength this country's stand.

"When President Eisenhower sent the marines into Lebanon, he asked Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, 'Foster, are you ready for the next step?' And Dulles replied wtih a nod of the head, implying 'we were prepared to back with strength our stand in Lebanon'."

IN OTHER areas, the Republican congressman deplored the need for this country to advertise its every move to the Communist world. "Why should we have to spell out in black and white what we are doing to the Communists?", he asked.

"I am pleased with our success in sending a man into space", he said, "but what would have happened if we had failed? I am sure instead of a parade in Washington, we would have had a tar and feather party."

Schweiker's address was the highlight of the dinner dance, and preceded a talk by Edwin Holl, republican candidate for the third legislative district.

Both Holl and Schweiker attacked what they described as the "Philadelphia land grab backed by William Green."

They accused Green of attempting to annex parts of Montgomery county to supplement the dwindling legislation representation in Philadelphia.

Holl summed up his platform by saying, "Do the people of Montgomery county wish to be annexed by Philadelphia and have the Green machine move in, or will they stand up and be counted, and fight for their legislative representation?"

Top Grandmother Notes 100 Mark

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Mary B. Luckie, known as the official grandmother of the general and State Federations of Women's Clubs, turns a lively 100 Saturday.

Her bachelor son, Leslie, and a raft of friends are giving her a big weekend.

The years have been so full that Mrs. Luckie hardly knows where to begin talking about her distinctions and all she has done. She took her first plane ride at 79 and was enchanted. She was still a flying enthusiast at 95, and made it known by sightseeing over Denver. She was there for a women's club convention, an annual highlight she rarely missed.

In 1952, when she was 91, Mrs. Luckie was chosen the state's mother of the year. A few years before she was made the state and national grandmother of the women's clubs. For a while she was also national historian.

The Pennsylvania women's suffrage movement was born at her invitation in neighboring Chester, where she lived 87 years before moving to Swarthmore.

She says her health is fine—"I eat everything, especially ice cream."

Inevitably, she was asked how does a person get to be 100.

"I don't know," she said. "I never drank or smoked. Maybe that's important. I get lots of rest.

"Maybe the secret is to be really interested in life. I always was. And I'm still enjoying every minute of it."

reviewing stand on High street between Hanover and Penn streets, then tramp the concrete to Franklin street.

Here they will turn north and advance like a youthful army up Franklin street to Pottstown Junior High school.

For most of them, here is where the day will really begin. This is what they have been waiting for. The rodeo.

Filing into the stands at Franklin field, they will be guests of the state police at a State Police Rodeo.

Entertainment at the rodeo will feature acts with horses, dogs, motorcycles, clowns and an atomic "atomic car."

To most of the public, also is invited to the rodeo, the parade will be the big thing. Approximately 20,000 persons are expected to view it, although the number might be lessened because of gloomy weather.

The parade will be the first of an annual program sponsored by the Pottstown Auto club. In previous years, the AAA gave tribute to the hundreds of area safety patrolers by feting them with a day trip to Washington, D. C.

The 50 area schools marching in the parade will be sectioned into nine divisions. Separating each division will be a high school driver training car.

Many of the schools will have themes based on safety ideas. They will carry placards identifying their school.

Themes and appearance of the marchers will be judged by the reviewing stand, and announcement of the winners will be made at Franklin Field during the rodeo.

Printed and framed certificates of merit will be awarded by the judges on the basis of appearance, marching ability, and originality.

Traffic restrictions for the benefit of the parade have been set up by police. They are: no parking on Franklin street from High street to the Junior High school; rodeo attenders are asked to use another route to Franklin Field other than Franklin street; no parking will be allowed on High street from Manatawny to Franklin streets until the parade is over.

Downtown merchants have agreed to keep their establishments closed until 10 a. m., when the parade will be over.

Nelson Gehman, director of the local auto club office, stated he hopes the parade will grow each year and become a tradition in Pottstown.

and arm.

Landis, then 16, said he saw the dog "but I didn't think he would do anything because the family was sitting on the porch. But as soon as he saw me he jumped. Mr. Anderson finally came out of the kitchen and pulled him off."

He was treated at Pottstown hospital and given shots to prevent rabies. Oxenford was also taken to Pottstown hospital by Anderson and treated to prevent rabies. He also suffered deep gashes in the left thigh.

Oxenford's father, George, reported the incident to the police Wednesday night and was advised to see Jane Miller, the borough dog catcher. Mrs. Miller said her husband, who helps her in the job, visited Anderson Thursday morning and again Friday morning and ordered the dog quarantined for 14 days to check for rabies.

Mrs. Miller said that "though it is a shame the boy was bitten, it occured on Anderson's property and there is no legal claim against the owner."

"We go by the law," she said, "and as long as the dog is licensed and kept on private property there is nothing we can do."

Both youths, however, say the dog was not kept on the property and there is no fence which could pen him in. "I saw him several ties quite a bit away from the property while making my rounds," Landis said.

"Sometimes he was chained to a tree but usually he just roamed around," he added.

Mickey Rooney Claims Poverty

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mickey Rooney testified Friday that, "After earning $12 million in 32 years of acting, the only thing I own is $8,700 in securities.

But that, he said, is more than offset by debts—including a government lien of $175,000 for back income taxes.

"I have nothing of value except my family," the actor said. "My wife and I can't own anything for fear someone will attach it."

Rooney, 38, was summoned before a Superior Court commissioner to determine whether he owns assets that could pay off a $5,540 promissory note judgment held against him by Republic Corp.

He said the $1,000 a week he is earning at film-acting barely pays bills for himself, his fifth wife, Barbara, and their two daughters, Kelly Ann, 20 months, and Kerry, 5 months.

Rooney claimed Republic owes him an estimated $250,000 under a three-picture contract calling for him to receive 40 per cent of the film's profits.

In his pocket, he said, he had only 90 cents.

BALTIMORE, (AP)—One of the new northbound highways is referred to in this area as the Baltimore-Harrisburg Expressway.

In Harrisburg, of course, it's called the Harrisburg-Baltimore Expressway.

York, Pa., situated between the two, avoids any favoritism by calling it the Susquehanna Expressway.

prove service in the case of short term patients.

"A patient who was admitted for tonsilitis — usually a case of three or four days—would be help up when discharge date came because our mailing service would not be able to determine eligibility fast enough. This meant we had to call Blue Cross headquarters in Philadelphia collect, and spend 45 minutes on the phone trying to get the information we needed. With the new system all this will be eliminated."

Acker emphasized the machines would be used solely for the use of securing account information. "They will not be used to send messages," he said.

The machines, scheduled to go into operation Monday at Memorial hospital and Tuesday at Pottstown hospital, were installed by the Blue Cross at no expense to the hospitals.

Doerrmann said 95 hospitals in the Blue Cross system are equipped with the machines.

"They require special training to operate and six girls from Pottstown hospital and four from Memorial spent a full day at the Bell Telephone company in Philadelphia learning the operation," Doerrmann said.

There are nine machines in constant use at the Philadelphia office.

The Other Day

RAYMOND ELLIOTT Exec. V. P.

an acquaintance told us of a maxim he had seen hanging on the wall in the office of a business friend, which read, "Happiness is not found in doing what one likes, but in liking what one has to do," and he said that for a long time he could not figure out the last part of it. He said, "Just how can you like what you have to do, if you simply don't like it?"

Well, he says he finally discovered the answer through his own practical knowledge. He explained, "As everyone knows from his own experience, we dislike games, tasks, or jobs that we cannot do well, and tend to like the things in which we excel. Usually the only way we ever become good or skillful at anything is through hard study and steady application, with a constant trying for improvement. So, that's the answer . . . the most disliked job, once it is mastered, becomes a source of pride and satisfaction."

He formerly had been only fair in his line of work, and thoroughly disliked everything about it. But once he got so mad he determined it wasn't going to lick him, and that was the turning point. Through real effort, study and practice, he gradually improved, and one day, he says, "I was surprised myself to find I was working along rather happly . . . and I saw that the results were getting to be something I could be proud of . . . from then on, I liked what I had to do."

He has said it so well we cannot add anything helpful, but when we hear of such things, which are basic ideas that can profoundly affect our lives, we like to pass them on, hoping that others will get as much from them as we do.

$17 Million Seen For State Under School Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Pennsylvania would get $17,117,647 more a year under the revised school aid bill than the original one provided.

The original bill set the figure at $26,880,000. Under the revised labor committee bill the amount would be $43,997,647.

Comparable amounts for neighboring states are:

Delaware — $1,155,000, $1,238,691; New Jersey — $14,400,000, $16,581,428; Ohio — $28,735,988, $39,492,069.

The committee Thursday approved, 12-2, a rewritten $2.55 billion bill providing grants for teachers salaries and school construction over the next three years.

The distribution formula is based on one embodied in the federal aid to education bill passed last year by the Senate.

Under it, all school age children in a state, including those in private schools, would be counted for purposes of apportioning aid. The grants would be on a sliding scale equalization formula so that the richest state would get $9.26 per pupil each year whereas the poorest would receive $27.77, three times as much.

Democrats handling President Kennedy's bill said Friday they feel sure of winning Senate approval without more changes.

Republicans promised a floor fight on the distribution formula.

Senate floor debate starts Tuesday or Wednesday.

Saturday Sermon

Memory

By EDGAR T. CHRISEMER, Pastor
Transfiguration Lutheran Church

"Every Common Bush," Dr. Chrisemer's new book, is a collection of 62 inspirational articles. This Saturday sermon is not an excerpt, but the book contains many essays you'll enjoy. It's on sale at H. F. Smith & Son, High and Charlotte street, The Lighthouse, King and Penn street, and the Heritage Book Shop, 10 North Evans street.

A young candidate for the state legislature was touring his district for voting support. But it was the harvest season, and the busy farmers had no time for speeches.

Determined to be heard, he carried his campaign into the fields. One day, when the farmer quit for dinner, the candidate mowed three neat rows, then left.

Years later, the farmer and his wife attended a White House reception. An attendant informed them that the President wanted to meet them privately, and ushered them into a small room.

When the President entered, he smiled and greeted them by name.

"You remember me after all these years?" the amazed farmer asked.

"Of course," said the President. "I once mowed your field."

"There's one thing I've always wanted to ask you about that," said the farmer. "When I returned from dinner, I found the scythe, but what did you do with the whetstone?"

The President thought for a moment, then smiled.

"I put it on top of the high gatepost," he said.

Back in Illinois the farmer hurried to his fields, and there atop the post was the whetstone, exactly where Abraham Lincoln had placed it 25 years before!

It is surprising what some people can remember, but still more amazing what some can forget!

Every man's memory is his own private library. He can open the files of memory and read the history of every experience.

But so often we rob tomorrow's memories by today's thoughlessness!

Some people have a memory so good they can recall every detail of an experience, yet not remember how many times they have told it to the same person.

Learning something new each day doesn't help much if you forget what you learned yesterday!

But we ought to know what to remember and what to forget. The mother-in-law often forgets that she was a daughter-in-law!

We should give without remembering and receive without forgetting!

People with poor memories often make up for it with good imaginations!

When a little boy was asked by his teacher what George Washington was noted for, he replied: "His memory!"

"Why do you think his memory was so great?" she inquired.

"Because," the boy answered, "they erected a monument to it!"

One of the most embarrassing methods of greeting an important person is, "Do you remember me?"

Charles Bay, former ambassador to Norway, used to reply, "Sure I remember you. Say, how did you ever get out of that trouble you were in?"

For those indiscreet enough to ask, "Do you remember me?", Sir Winston Churchill replies, "Why should I!"

We are either blessed or condemned by our memory!

Some people commit the golden rule to memory and forget to commit it to life!

But sometimes a man with a clear conscience simply has a poor memory!

During the trial of Judd Gray and Ruth Snyder, the prosecution was finding it difficult to prove Gray was at the scene on the night of the crime. The testimony was unconvincing.

But among the witnesses was a taxi driver who declared he remembered him on that night.

Asked why he was so sure, the taxi driver declared: "Why? Because on a $3.50 fare, he gave me only a five-cent tip! Five cents! I take a good look at his face, and I'll never forget him. There he sits, right over there!"

And he pointed to Judd Gray.

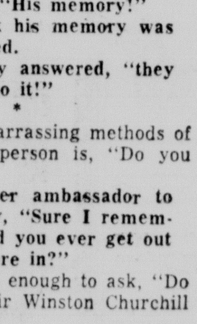

A five-cent tip sent him to the chair!

PUNKIN CORNERS,
May 12.

Editor, The Mercury,
Dear Sir 'n' Brother:

Wal, I see by the papers where three University of Florida students were disciplined for annoying and injuring the school mascot, a 12-foot alligator. The old college stunt of swallowing goldfish may have been just as silly but it was a lot safer!

It's only natural that a baseball pitcher who develops a "glass arm" can see his own finish.

The population of the Sahara Desert is about two million, according to the office atlas. Takes a lot of sand for a fellow to make his home there!

And say: One of the exhibits in a European museum is a petrified bun, believed to have been baked more than 125 years ago. Probably some ancient bride's first attempt at biscuits.

Hopin' you air the same,

Up Goes Temperature, Off Come Clothes

Women Can't Dress?

To the Editor: I'm not here long in Pottstown, but in that short time I've noticed that the town women are some of the most tasteless dressed, and now that warmer weather is here, the least dressed!

Why won't Pottstown women wear hats?

I saw a pretty woman all dressed up and nicely, wearing gloves, and not a hat on. That's a sartorial error, if I ever saw one.

But I give her credit. Most Pottstown women don't even dress up to go out town. When one does, the others marvel.

Let me give you the other barrel: Warm does bring out the lest dressed. It's getting worse and worse. There seems to be a contest on to see who can wear the least.

I'd be ashamed to walk on High street so undressed. Have they no sense of propriety?

Pottstown CARPET BAGGER

To Relieve Dangerous Site

To the Editor: I read with particular interest your article concerning the unnecessary and dangerous signs on North Charlotte street.

Twice I have come close to being involved in an accident because you cannot see at a safe distance north on entering Charlotte street unless you are in a dangerous position.

The signs are not needed, and they are in a dangerous position; yet protests to the State Highway department go unheeded.

I have complained to township officials only to find they are vexed by the same condition and cannot get results.

I am taking the liberty of sending a copy of your article to the highway department so they can see what the complaints are about.

I am sure there is strong support for the public service you are rendering in this matter.

To the Editor: Please accept my personal thanks for the excellent publicity given to the recent tuberculin skin testing program.

Your interest in the health needs in our community is of great value to all of us who are making every effort to provide to the residents of the Pottstown area a health program that not only attempts to meet the present need, but one that anticipates and plans for changes in the filed of public health.

Again my sincere thanks to you and your staff.

Can't Drivers Read?

To the Editor: The borough commission should just stop wasting its time when it comes to painting signs on local streets.

Today's drivers have no more distinction between a through lane and turning lane. In fact, just reversing the signs might prove a welcoming factor.

Invariably, the driver who wants to make a right turn pulls into the through lane, holds up traffic for a light or two just trying to edge his way in to make the turn.

Then there is the man behind the wheel who isn't quite so conscientious and makes his turn from practically the other side.

The new laws governing tests for drivers are fine, but an education course could seem to prove a necessity for some.

Pottstown TRYING TO OBEY

Traffic Snarlers

To the Editor: When are the business trucks of Pottstown going to stop parking all over the streets, blocking traffic and making cars sneak through small openings?

Drivers most of the time could easily park their trucks safely off to the side. Instead they leave them halfway in the middle of the street.

Some trucks even block off the streets completely, making it impossible to get through.

They don't own the streets do they?

For myself, I make a note of which truck is in the street, and stop buying from that particular company.

PRINCESS MARGARET'S new long hemline, which she introduced a couple of weeks ago, was a fashion bomb. Nobody—but nobody—copied it; in fact, here and on the Continent, hemlines have gone up slightly since then, even in the hinterlands.

Bettina, the great love of the late Ali Khan, is protesting that there's absolutely no romance between her and Count Lorenzo di Adelfi, although they're seen together often in the posh Paris bistros.

The record-pirating scandal may soon spread to include one of the biggest retailers of them all.

Sir Winston Churchill's deal for the pocketbook reprint of his "The Second Work War" will net him approximately a quarter of a million dollars. He's already made over a million on his literary efforts.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

ANDREW G., aged 5, is an only child.

"Dr. Crane, he had never sent Andrew to Sunday school," his mother confessed.

"But after reading your column, I finally decided we should get him started.

"So he went for two Sundays and then decided he didn't want to attend any longer. So what should we do now?

"His daddy thinks maybe we better wait till Andrew is old enough to decide such things for himself."

CHILDREN cannot be relied upon to make correct decisions in all matters, so smart parents must steer them properly.

For example, the truant officer doesn't let a child wait till it is in the middle teens to decide whether it wishes to attend public school.

Not on your life. At the age of 6, a child must attend school, and a truant officer is available to make sure this wise rule is obeyed.

In like manner, we don't wait till a child is 15 or 16 before we ask him to make up his mind about brushing his teeth or washing his hands before a meal, etc.

And so it is with reference to moral habits. A child must be urged by diligent parents into doing the right things. And going to Sunday school is one of these "right" things.

Furthermore, parents should lead their child and thus set a strong positive example before him, by going to Sunday school with the youngster.

IT ISN'T enough for parents to "preach" ethics and moral action. No, they must demonstrate their own belief in such things by their positive action.

If Andrew is sent into a strange group on Sunday morning, is it any wonder he becomes shy and wishes to stay home?

That is likewise true of public school on opening day. Thousands of children cry and try to avoid going back to kindergarten, largely because they are afraid to leave mama's apron strings.

So a wise mother cushions the shock of this separation by first helping her youngster cultivate friendship with other little boys and girls in the neighborhood.

Then, when these are ready for school, her young hopeful can go along with them. He will thus be reassured by the company of his little friends.

And if he needs further assurance, his mother can also accompany him, whether to public school or church school on Sunday.

Inside Television

By EVE STARR

STARR REPORT: Ever since Jim Garner sneaked out of Warner Brothers through a contractual loophole, "Maverick" has been sputtering along on only half of its eight cylinders. Next season the series will suffer the ignominy og being tossed into the children's hour, 6:30-7:30 p. m. Sundays, and will make only 13 new episodes. The rest of the programs — 20 all told — will consist strictly of repeats.

Garner, meanwhile is going the guest-star route and not doing too well at it. He played himself in an "Angel" episode and and has appeared twice with Dinah Shore, but none of the three outings broke any world records — except possibly for money received.

One begins to suspect that Garner was born to play the role of the original "Maverick" and that without it he is just another nice-looking guy trying to get along.

WORD-OF-MOUTH: Arthur Godfrey is finally pulling out of "Candid Camera," not having been able to resolve his difficulties with the show's creator, Alan Funt. He'll he replaced by Bill Cullen, which seems rather ridiculous. There was never any need for Godfrey in the first place. It has been Funt's show ever since its early days as "Candid Microphone" and why a second emcee seemed to be necessary has always been beyond me.

With its new hour series, "Solitaire," out of the running for next season, Warner Brothers finds it has an expensive contract with Kathleen Crowley and no show for her. That means they'll have to put her into features, which is just fine with Kathleen. it's exactly what she's wanted all along.

"Mr. Ed," the talking horse co-starred with Alan Young, makes the network grade in the Fall. CBS has picked it up for the 6:30 p. m. spot on Sundays, just preceding "Lassie."

THE GRAPEVINE: They're now dubbing a Japanese sountrack for Fred MacMurray's "My Three Sons." The series will bow in Japan in a few weeks.

A new young starlet on the Warner lot these days goes under the name of Judy Lewis. She already has had roles in "77 Sunset Strip" and "Surfside 6." Her big handicap, however, is not being publicized — this is because her mother is Loretta Young.

Well, the U. S. is ahead in TV sets anyway. We have 68,000,000 in use. The rest of the world put together can muster up only 43,000,000. And it's a mixed blessing at that.

With his "Wells Fargo" being expanded to a full hour, Dale Robertson is balking at carrying the load all by himself and wants to sign a co-star. Likeliest bet: Dewey Martin, fresh from his three hour-long "Daniel Boone" films at Disney.

There's an inspirational series in the works for Pat Boone, who would be the host-narrator and not do any singing. And the program will not only be inspirational, but be based on real action-adventure happenings as well.

JFK Silent On Plan To Revive War Post

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer

Suggestions that the World War II office of White House chief of staff and personal military adviser to the president be revived are going the rounds in the capital.

There has been no hint so far from the White House as to whether President Kennedy favors the idea or even has it under active consideration.

In some Pentagon quarters, the idea was received coldly. The feeling there is that it would downgrade the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, a post now held by Army Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer. One of his jobs now is to advise the President on military matters.

The speculation has moved along to the point of listing possible appointees to such a job. Included are the names of Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations; and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, retired Army chief of staff who has been called in by Kennedy to make a study of the paramilitary system and intelligence.

Burke's term as chief of naval operations and member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff expires on Aug. 17. He is reported to have no interest in continuing in that post, even if the unprecedented action of offering him reappointment for a fourth term was taken.

Burke presumably would be agreeable to serving in a job like that held by another admiral in World War II.

Adm. William D. Leahy was President Franklin D. Roosevelt's personal chief of staff. There was no JCS chairman then.

Those who see substance in the idea of reviving that office have expressed several thoughts.

The need for close integration of military planning by the United States and its allies is almost as great now as during the hostilities of World War II. A White House chief of staff not directly concerned with routing planning and administrative work would be in a better position to do that liaison job. He would be able to remain aloof from the internal debates of the JCS.

The new emphasis on the paramilitary organization and techniques, in which Kennedy has made plain his interest, involves cooperation with the friendly nations with whom the United States will be operating in assisting guerrilla warfare activities.

Unless and until Kennedy indicates interest in the White House chief of staff idea, no formal comment is to be expected from the Pentagon.

Gen. Thomas D. White's term as Air Force chief of staff ends on July 1.

The fact that Gen. Curtis LeMay, former chief of the Strategic Air Command, now is vice chief of staff gave some substance to reports that he probably will be moved up to succeed White; with Gen. Frederick H. Smith, who heads the U. S. Air Force in Europe, being brought to Washington as vice chief.

JURY DECIDES ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR MURDERER

Policeman's Killer Sentenced to Death

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A jury Friday decided that 29 year old Albert E. Raymond must die in the electric chair for killing a policeman last year.

The jurors spent just over an hour reaching a decision on the punishment. Under Pennsylvania law, they had to choose either life imprisonment or death because they had convicted Raymond of first degree murder.

The guilty verdict was returned Thursday night. Then the jurors convened again to hear testimony relating to Raymond's past record.

A retired detective testified that Raymond had been convicted of manslaughter for stabbing a man in 1955. He was on parole when he killed Patrolman William H. Powell Jr., 30, last Nov. 19 with Powell'es service revolver in the hallway of an apartment building.

The prosecution said that Raymond; once a boxer, was trying to rob Powell. Raymond said he fired in self defense; that trouble had developed after Powell came to the building seeking a girl. He was off duty.

Raymond hid for several days while the police searched the city. He finally surrendered to a newspaper reporter.

Modern Manners

THOUGHTS ON PLANNING A WEDDING

When a family plans a wedding for the first time, confusion can reign unless the mother of the bride-to-be makes an effort to learn the traditions that should be followed.

A wedding is a time of celebration, and, after the religious ceremony, it is customary for relatives and friends to gather to feast and dance and be merry! Depending upon how far the budget will stretch, the size of the reception is determined by the parents of the bride. How many people will the church hold? How many will fit into the place where the party is to be held?

When the number has been arrived at, the next step is making a list of those to be invited. Much grief can follow if this task is handled in a hit-or-miss manner. Writing names on slips of paper, which promptly get lost, is not the way to do it! Some important person, usually a relative who never gets over the hurt, is left out. If you follow the procedure below, I'm sure the going will be much easier!

First, have aconference with the parents of the bridegroom, in which he joins. Tell the approximate number of guests that they may invite. Their cooperation is very necessary in this regard. If they invite too many, it will upset the number you are to ask.

Be fair, of course, in the division of how many can be accommodated. What you are trying to do is avoid having more people in the church than seats, or more at the reception than you can handle.

Now that this point has been reached, purchase some 3x5 cards in two colors. Say blue for the bride's family and white for the bridegroom's.

Also get an alphabetical index of the same size. Now, get started by placing the last name, followed by the first names — and under this the address — each on a separate card. For example: Doe, Mr. and Mrs. John, 210 Eighth St.

Place these cards in the alphabetical index. When the list is complete, the blue and white cards should all be put together. This does away with any chance of duplication.

Address the wedding invitations from these cards. No acknowledgement is expected when a person is asked to the church alone. If asked to the reception also, a reply should be received. As these come in, mark "Regret" or "Accept" on the card that matches. This facilitates ascertaining just how many guests to expect.

QUESTION: I am expecting to send a check, rather than a gift, to the daughter of a friend of mine, who is to be married. Do I make this check payable to her and her fiance, or what? Of course it is for both them.

Mrs. L. H. T.-Chicago

ANSWER: The check should be made payable to the girl, alone. Gifts, or money, are always given to the bride, not to her fiance.

1000 Petitioners File Protest To County Court

NORRISTOWN, (AP)—A petition containing 1000 signatures was filed Friday in Montgomery County court asking "a sentence more in keeping with the severity of the crimes charged" to Julian W. Barnard, a Norristown attorney.

Barnard, 63, former borough solicitor for Norristown, had pleaded no defense to a charge of involuntary manslaughter after Robert Lee Stansberry, 33, of East Norristown, was killed by a car last November 1. Barnard also was accused of driving away after the fatal accident.

On April 26, visiting Judge Warren K. Hess of Berks county fined him $500 and put him on probation for two years. He was ordered to surrender his driver's license for two years.

The next day, he was seen driving in front of the county courthouse. Hess ordered a bench warrent for Barnard's commitment to jail but stayed issurance of it.

Grandmother Tells Committee What Is Wrong With Farming

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lively grandmother and dairy farmer from Kansas told the House Agriculture Committee what she thinks is wrong with the farm business.

Mrs. Mary Conger of Iola, Kan., made these main points:

Farmers just can't make out without some program to adjust supply and demand.

Farm organization leaders are often diametrically opposed on what that program should be.

She looks to the agriculture committee for strong leadership in this field and approves of the objectives of the administration's omnibus farm bill now before it.

Her greatest fear is that farmers will wind up with no government program at all.

She made this additional point: "It's very important for the cows to get up in the morning."

Mrs. Conger and her husband, Carl, own a 720-acre dairy farm at Iola. Both were born and raised on farms. They met at Kansas State University. He has found it necessary to hold down a job as a conservation agent in another county. When he's not around, Mrs. Conger runs the farm with its 225 Holstein cows.

Mrs. Conger, who mutters to herself about farm problems as she scrubs down the dairy, put her ideas into writing last year and they were published in the Saturday Evening Post.

Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., chairman of the agriculture committee, read the article and invited her to appear she did, at her own expense.

For eight years, she said, there has been a yawning gap between the prices she and her husband must pay for their equipment and the price of the milk they sell. They have doubled and tripled their milking herds in an effort to close the gap.

A trim, graying blonde and a grandmother four times, Mrs. Conger was turned out stylishly. But back in Kansas, she's a working farm hand.

"My duty is to milk in the morning," she said. She gets up before dawn with "coyotes yipping in the back pasture. The beams of my flashlight pick out 100 black Holsteins. They don't want to get up. They're as lazy as people. I walk around them and whoop and holler.

"Then I think of how many people they are supporting."

These cows, she said, and others like them support the milk industry, with its processors, shippers, and milkmen; they support the farm machinery industry, pesticide makers, service organizations—dozens of others.

"The picture is then inescapable," she said—"a giant inverted economic pyramid balanced with its apex resting on the farmer and his cows.

"So it's very important for the cows to get up in the morning."

Pottstown Area Churches Will Pay Homage to Mothers

WORSHIPERS WILL WEAR CARNATIONS

Holiday Established By Congress In 1914

Services in honor of mothers will be conducted in most Pottstown and area churches tomorrow, Mother's day.

The day is set aside every year in honor of motherhood and is always observed the second Sunday in May.

It is customary on this day to wear a carnation. A colored one if one's mother is living and a white one if she is deceased.

In England, many years ago, this day was called "Mothering Sunday" and usually came in mid-Lent.

THIS SUNDAY has been long observed by the Yugoslavs and many other people of the world.

The first known suggestion for a Mother's day in the United States was made by Julia Ward Howe, author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

She suggested Mother's day be observed on June 2 as a day of peace, and for many years she conducted an annual Mother's day meeting in Boston.

A campaign was launched by Frank E. Hering of South Bend, Ind. in 1904 for a Mother's day at the convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in Kansas City.

IT WAS three years later that Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, conducted a lifetime effort to establish the nationwide observance.

And it was she who selected the second Sunday in May as the appropriate day, and also originated the custom of wearing a carnation.

This day received national recognition on May 8, 1914, through a resolution passed by both houses of Congress.

During the following year, President Woodrow Wilson was authorized to proclaim Mother's day as an annual national observance each year.

IN SERVICES conducted in the Second Baptist church the mothers of the congregation will be in charge of the morning covenant service at 11 o'clock.

Highlighting the evening service will be a sermon by the Rev. Heywood L. Butler, pastor and Holy Communion and the pinning of carnations on a cross in memory of deceased mothers.

"Blessed Woman," is the sermon theme of the Rev. Donald W. Deffenbaugh, pastor of the First Church of the Brethren, Fifth and York streets.

Special music will also mark the observance with two solos by Edith Johnson. A baby dedication service will also be conducted in conjunction with the morning service at 10:45 o'clock.

RALPH WEIST, Sunday school superintendent of Trinity Evangelical Congregational church, Boyertown, will address the Sunday school children of the Trinity EC church, Franklin and Walnut streets.

During Trinity's worship service the fathers of the congregation will lead the services and present special music.

More than 150 people attended worship services the past Sunday in Christ Episcopal church, 316 High street, in honor of mothers. The service was sponsored by the Men's club, who cooked and served the breakfast.

John Storb was the guest speaker for the observance.

Each of Emmanuel Lutheran Sunday school classes will pay a tribute to Mother's day.

THE REV. Dr. C. William Ebbert, pastor of St. Paul's United Church of Christ, will speak on one of the seven last words of Christ, "Behold Thy Mother," at the morning worship services at 8 and 10:30 o'clock.

"The Christian Family" will be the sermon by the Rev. John L. Smoker, pastor of Salem Evangelical United Brethren church, tomorrow at 8:30 and 10:45 a. m.

Also highlighting the service will be the presentation of a potted plant to each mother present.

Mrs. John Fry will act as superintendent of the Sunday school and Mrs. D. Schwab will read the scripture lesson.

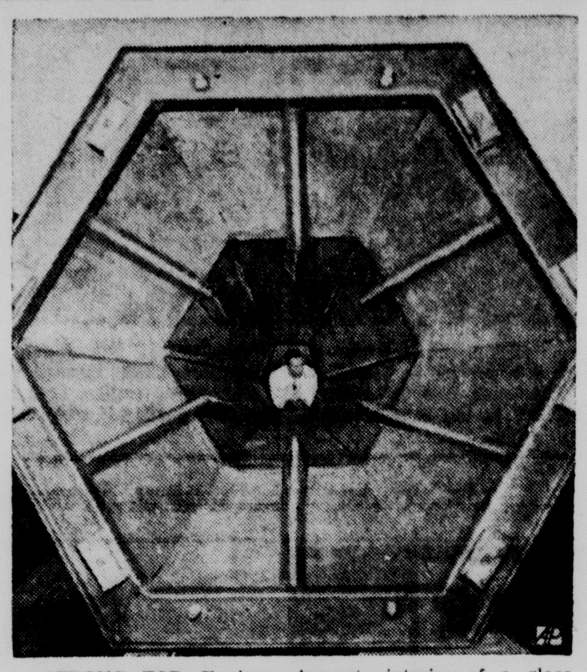

Readings will be given by Mrs. Irene Wentzel and Donald Mace will honor all the mothers with a solo.

There will be gifts given to the oldest mother, the youngest mother and to the mother with the most children present.

Carnations will be given to each mother who attends the worship services in the Grace Lutheran church.

The Rev. Richard G. Hoffert, pastor, will preach on "Fervent Charity."

Church to Burn Mortgage for Parish House

In May of 1958 the two Methodist churches composing the Cedarville and Temple charge were made into two station charges, each with its own pastor. While the churches were combined their pastor resided at the Cedarville parsonage.

On May 18, 1958 the Temple congregation received its own pastor, thereby necessitating the provision for a residence. Immediately a parsonage building committee composed of Charles Bradley, Oscar Haws and John Yocom investigated building possibilities, ultimately suggesting to the church a Cape Cod type house.

The chairman of the financial campaign, Alvin Spohn, began a financial program with a goal of $17,000.

The mortgage was satisfied Monday. The mortgage burning and dedication service will be conducted at Temple Methodist church and parsonage lawn on May 21 from 10:45 a. m. to noon. A congregational luncheon will follow.

Those officiating at the dedication and mortgage burning are Mrs. J. Harold Yocom, church treasurer; Yocom, Spohn, Murrell McKinstry, president of board of trustees, Susan Spohn, the young lady selected to burn the mortgage, and the Rev. David L. Fife, pastor.

Brownback's Will Mark 218th Year

Brownback's United Church of Christ (Evangelical and Reformed), Spring City RD 1, the mother congregation of all Chester county Reformed churches, will observe the 218th anniversary of its founding at morning worship tomorrow.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Laverne Dauderman, treasurer of the board of international missions.

Mrs. Meral E. Cox, Pottstown, will speak during the church school hour noting monthly Missionary Sunday.

The congregation was formally organized on May 19, 1743 when the "Book of Discipline" was given in Philadelphia with 36 men signing and formulating a constitution.

In the early years, the first church, which was built of logs, was constructed at the site of the present edifice by Gerhard Brumbach, the German name for Brownback. Brumbach was a native of Germany who came to the New World in 1683. He donated the plot of ground used as the building site including the cemetery. Brumbach died at the age of 96 and his remains are interred in the church cemetery which bears his name.

The first minister, the Rev. Jacob Lischey, served a circuit of 16 churches in all and rode horseback from one to the other.

The present pastor, the Rev. Vernon E. Firme, has been pastor for more than seven years, coming to Brownback's from Emmanuel church, Philadelphia, in March 1954. He is the 26th pastor to serve the church. Total membership is more than 300.

The missionary-minded church, in addition to its benevolent committments to the Evangelical and Reformed church, has provided the complete support of a missionary to Honduras, Mrs. Elise Vargas since 1954.

PERSONAL EVANGELISM

BETHANY, W. Va. (AP)—Television and other forms of mass communication "cannot replace the commitment, challenge, concern and contact-impact shown in personal evangelism," James W. Carty Jr., Bethany college journalism professor, writes in the current issue of "Church Administration."

He adds: "Too many Christians feel increasingly that their task of soul-winning can be done solely by the press, radio or television . . . The mass media can only whet the appetite of the viewer or listener. They possess little power to pull him to the church."

SEARCH FOR FAITH

NEW YORK (AP) — A man's search for faith, and his strange way of finding it through discovery that love is more meaningful than a valuable painting, is the subject of a new novel, "The Bells of Rome," by Goran Stenius, published by P. J. Kenedy and Sons.

But ye, brethren, be not weary in well doing.—(Thessolonians 3, 13.)

Why are o many of us these days addicted to pills to make us sleep, to give us needed energy, to allay our nervousness and tension? Let us try stopping at least once a day, in the headlong rush, to help someone in need, unselfishly to lighten another's load — and in well doing, find peace.

Solomon Avers Wise Son Makes Glad His Father

The Golden Text

A model of Solomon's temple.

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."—Proverbs 22:6.

Loving Parent Does Not Hesitate To Correct by Punishment

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE THEME of this lesson, the importance of establishing a beautiful home life, is first illustrated with Solomon's resolve to carry out an important work planned by his father, David—a great temple to the Lord.

David had brought up his son with such loving discipline that his hopes were realized through his son. David had set a fine example of devotion to God, and Solomon, by this example, by training and by his own effort, had made him a proud father.

Solomon, in his proverbs, tells his own sons how important it is for them to learn from him, telling them that he had learned in turn from his parents. [When Solomon says he was "only beloved in the sight of (his) mother," he means that he was long known as God's chosen and was especially beloved, as T. T. Perowne points out in "Peloubet's Select Notes."]

"A wise son maketh a glad father; but a foolish son is the heaviness of his mother," says Solomon (Proverbs 10:1). The wise child makes his parents glad not only by his wisdom per se, but by having the wisdom (or love, or understanding) to put forth the effort deliberately to make his parents happy. Everyone should take the opportunity to show his parents as much love as possible—while he still has time to do so. Remorse is bitter for such lost opportunity after one's parents die.

Solomon also points out that the truly loving parent does not hesitate to correct his children by punishment when they do wrong. The parent who merely lectures the child without enforcing his meaning is selfish, as William Arnot points out ("Peloubet's Select Notes"). The parent takes credit for being loving, at the expense of the child's character.

Yet it is equally bad to punish in anger, for when he corrects for something which is not a fault, but mere "impetuous playfulness," he can "crack the temper of his child for life."

This week's golden text points up the vital role played by the housewife-mother in our world. No one else has so much power and responsibility in forming our most valuable resource—fine character.

Dr. G. C. Morgan has pointed out that what you want your child to be, you must be yourself; disciplining the child means primarily disciplining yourself, for he learns by your example.

It is in the home that the child learns the basic Christian truth—that his true happiness depends on making others happy. A home in which this truth is practiced has a beauty of spirit that even the casual visitor can feel. Children from such a home cannot help but spread the gospel of love.

Paul reinforces these teachings of Solomon in his letters to the Ephesians, wherein he urges children to honor their parents, and parents to "nurture" their young ones "in the chastening and admonition of the Lord." (Ephesians 6:4).

Discipline in the Home — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—I Kings 5:1-7; Proverbs 4:1-4; 10:1; 13:24; 20:11; 22:6; 29:17; Ephesians 6:1-4.

Solomon tells Hiram, king of Tyre, that he intends to carry out his father's plans for a magnificent temple to the Lord. He asks his help, saying, "Command thou that they hew me cedar trees out of Lebanon." —I Kings 5:6.

In this, Solomon is showing his love and obedience to his father, just as he asks the love and obedience of his children. "A wise son," he says, "maketh a glad father; but a foolish son is the heaviness of his mother."—Proverbs 10:1.

"He that spareth his rod hateth his son; but he that loveth him chasteneth him betimes. . . . Correct thy son, and he will give thee rest," Solomon advises; "yea, he will give delight unto thy soul." — Proverbs 13:24; 29:17.

"Even a child maketh himself known by his doings; whether his work be pure, and whether it be right. . . . Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right."—Proverbs 20:11; Ephesians 6:1.

GOLDEN TEXT—Proverbs 22:6.

a child's gift

A child's gift is especially sweet. I wish that I could give this little girl something that would mean as much to her as her flowers mean to me. But I know that just now, I can't. For she won't recognize my gift until much, much later.

Then, I hope she'll look back on her memories of me and say, "The first time I ever went to church, I went with my Grandma. You know, I don't think she ever missed a Sunday at church in her life . . ."

Though I have missed a Sunday now and then when I was sick, or had to stay home with my young ones, I never have missed going to church if there were a way to get there. And this habit—a wonderful habit—is something that I've passed along to my son, and that I've seen him pass along to his daughter.

This is a priceless heritage. For having a regular place for the Church in one's life, from childhood on, gives one a faith that endures forever.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Farmers are Asked To Stop Bickering

HARRISBURG, (AP) — A top State agriculture department official has called on farm organizations to quit battling among themselves and boost agriculture through united action.

"It has been said, and I must admit that there is considerable merit in these statements, that the farm organizations spend so much time fighting each other that little time is left to fight for the farmers they supposedly represent", said D. Richard Wenner, executive deputy secretary of agriculture.

"Is it any wonder, then, that the American public is confused and a little disgusted with farmers?"

Wenner urged what he termed a rebirth of cooperation on the part of farm organizations. He did not mention any groups by name.

"IT IS unlikely that we will ever have a federation of farm organizations on a national scale", said Wenner, "but it is becoming increasingly apparent that our organizations are going to have to learn to settle their differences in private, give up the spotlight, and present a united, solid front to the public offering workable, well thought-out progressive programs."

The warring of the farm organizations at the national level — and to a lesser degree at the Pennsylvania level —has resulted in adverse public opinion directed against the agriculture industry, Wenner contended, adding:

"It is a contention of many observers in the public affairs field today that much of the bad public relations in agriculture is the direct result of the actions of the so-called farm organizations."

Wenner indicated that most of the organizations speaking for farmers hold backward views on the industry's problems.

"One of the basic truobles with agriculture today is that farm production is proceeding at 1961 rates while too many of our self-serving farm organizations and our agricultural marketing machinery operate at about the 1910 level," said Wenner.

At the same time the administration official urged farmers to take greater advantage of farmer cooperative organizations to battle the ever-present cost-price squeeze.

"The role of the cooperate has been tremendously underrated in this state," said Wenner. "Too often they have been a last resort to preserve a failing system."

By organizing cooperatives, farmers can provide themselves with all of the integrated functions of any other modern American industry, said Wenner. Barring large cooperate farms, producers cannot economically provide themselves with marketing, purchasing, advertising, research and transportatioin facilities on an individual basis.

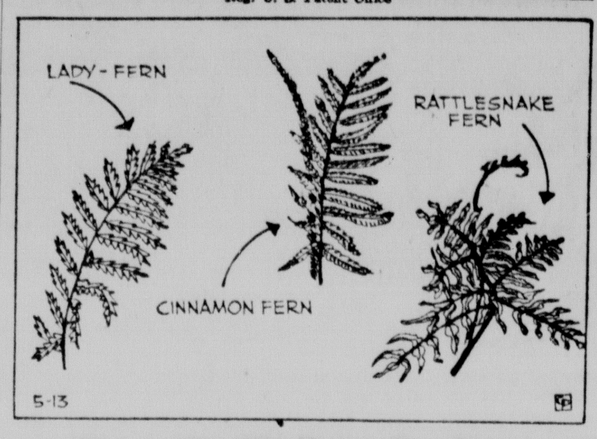

Wenner also was critical of penny-pinching in payment of personnel for both cooperate and government agricultural activity.

"Too many boards of directors try to hire a manager for the cooperative at a salary comparable to the one they pay their hired man for shoveling stables," Wenner declared.

"Well," he said, "they usually get what they pay for and that is why some cooperatives are as ineffective as they are."

Ferns Do Well In Gardens

By EDNA HALLIDAY
Distributed by Central Press Association

Much of the natural beauty of our woods, fields and pasture lands is due to the graceful, green, arching fern fronds.

To have a fern planting of your own you do not have to violate the conservation laws by getting them in the nearest woods. Because of the spreading interest in wild flowers, a number of reliable nurseries specialize in nursery-grown wild stock, including ferns. If interested, write to this department for their names, but do enclose a self addressed, stamped envelope.

There are many excellent ferns for use in the home garden. Three are shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

The Lady fern is easy to grow in either full sun or partial shade. It has light green, finely cut fronds. It grows from two to three feet in height and is deciduous. Another valuable garden fern is the Cinnamon fern. When full grown, it often reaches a height of five or six feet. It transplants easily and is long-lived. The fronds of this fern are often used in dried arrangements.

Another fern which is excellent for shady places is the Rattlesnake fern. It is so named because it appears to have a rattle on its uppermost tip. It will attain a height of three feet. It is a handsome plant and prefers shade and moisture.

Weeder's Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Did you ever consider that some of the vegetable seedlings you grow or buy are too old when planted to produce the best results? Your plants may be overgrown by the time they are set in the garden.

A vegetable specialist compares plants to young children, in respect to their rate of growth. When young children have suffered a setback in their normal rate of growth, they often carry the effects of this condition into adulthood. Plants respond in the same way. They have difficulty making up for lost time if their normal growth has been retarded.

To gain the highest productivity, constant and uniform growth is necessary for vegetable plants.

Getting plants into the garden at the most propitious time requires planning. First, figure the date you intend to plant a particular variety. Then count back the number of weeks required to bring the seedling to the right age. Sow your seed on that date.

In the north, tomatoes, peppers and eggplant should be put into the field from mid-May to June 1. Tomatoes need six to seven weeks to reach the proper setting-size. Peppers need about a week more. Onions require eight to nine weeks before setting.

We were taken to task some time ago by a nursery man because we suggested planting both evergreen and deciduous (leafy) shrubs together for landscaping. We were told that any fool knew the deciduous plants would grow so much faster and crowd the evergreens. You have to consider available space in your planting, and, of course, the problem varies with your section of the country.

So with this off our mind, we have a few words about establishing color in your home landscaping. Spring and early Summer offer abundant variety. After that the color is pretty much a blend of greens, ranging from the pale Slender Deutzia to the gloss of the Flowering Quince or Rugosa Rose.

Agriculture Department Sees Surplus Winter Wheat Crop

WASHINGTON, (AP) The Agriculture department forecast another surplus-producing Winter wheat crop of 1,095,697,000 bushels, exceeded only by the harvests in 1958 and 1960.

With a Spring wheat crop of around 228 million bushels indicated on the basis of grower planting plans, this would give a total crop of 1,323,697,000 bushels compared with 1,363,443,000 last year and 1,092,071,900 for the 10-year-average.

A crop of this size would add possibly 125 million bushels to a record reserve and surplus of about 1.5 million bushels now creating a storage and financing problem for government and growers. Most of this accumulation from past big crops is held by the government under price support programs.

The estimate was made at a time when the Kennedy administration is pressing Congress to enact and omnibus farm bill which would give the secretary of agriculture and an advisory committee of growers authority to set up a new wheat production control program. The present program, started in 1953, has proven ineffective.

The Winter wheat forecast was made in a crop report which said farm field work is two weeks or more behind schedule in North Atlantic and North Central states due to cold weather and wet soils.

The acreage for harvest, the yield per acre, and the indicated production, respectively, of Winter wheat for Pennsylvania was 519,000 acres for harvest; 30 bushels per acre and production 15,570,000 bushels.

Pop! Goes the Bobcat

HILAND, Wyo. (AP) — Ted Neff, a Hiland rancher, surprised a large male bobcat while inspecting his rangeland on horseback recently.

Neff was unarmed — except for a bottle of soda pop in each pocket.

He fired one — and missed.

The second bottle popped the bobcat square between the eyes.

While the cat was temporarily dazed, Neff recovered the first bottle and finished the job.

SUBJECT TO RABIES

Cattle, cats, swine and horses, as well as dogs, have been known to suffer from rabies.

Cream Price Reports Widen

HARRISBURG — Southeastern Pennsylvania cream price reports will include country point reports of open market transactions, State Secretary of Agriculture William L. Henning announced.

This expansion of the cream price report is being accomplished through a new agreement between the State Agriculture Department and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Additional state money is being matched with federal funds to allow the Philadelphia Dairy and Poultry Market News Service office to collect country point cream prices. Formerly the Philadelphia cream price report was based principally on transactions in the city.

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP) — Success arrived early for Fred Cutlip in the teaching profession.

Five years ago, at 19, he was the youngest grade school principal in the United States at Lawndale School in Lincoln.

Next year he will be a full-fledged professor on the faculty of Northern Michigan College at Marquette in the mathematics department.

He now is studying towards his master's degree at the University of Illinois on a National Science Foundation fellowship.

Court Finally Gets Its Man

A Lackawanna county man who escaped from Graterford State penitentiary nearly 23 years ago, and then enjoyed less than three years of freedom before his arrest in New York State, "came home" Friday and was sentenced to serve four months to two years on prison break charges.

Frank John Jimcosky, who escaped from Graterford on July 17, 1938, told Montgomery county Judge Robert Honeyman he spent a full 20-year sentence in New York state for burglaries.

He had been sentenced to Graterford on Oct. 17, 1936, after a conviction for burglary in Lackawanna county. He served less than the minimum of his two to four year sentence there before escaping.

Jimcosky has been under indictment on the prison break charge since Sept. 7, 1938.

Suspect Is Sentenced For Local Robbery

Earl David Smith, of Walnut street, Reading, who pleaded guilty to being involved in a Pottstown robbery in 1958, was given five years probation after pleading guilty before Judge Robert Honeyman Friday.

Smith, who is serving a term at Lehigh county prison, admitted he had taken part in the armed robbery at Johnny's Service Station, West High St., on Dec. 16, 1958, in which $94 was taken from Wesley Bartholomew, attendant, of North Warren street.

Charges were brought against Smith and another man accused in the robbery by Pottstown Det. John Kirlin. Before Smith could be located, he was committed to the Lehigh County Prison.

Man Is Sentenced For Obstructing Officer

Harry Halligan, of Glenwood avenue, Collegeville, who pleaded to obstructing an officer, was placed on probation for 23 months by Judge Robert Honeyman, who directed the defendant to pay costs and also damages caused by his actions.

Charges were brought by Collegeville Police Chief Richard McClure, who said Halligan, after being arrested on Sept 17 at the Glenwood avenue address, struggled down a stairway and attempted to attack a woman who was entering the house.

During the struggle, Chief McClure said, his gun belt was broken and the belt, gun and cartridges fell to the street.

MARKET ENDS WEEK ON UP SIDE

American Exchange Volume Tops New York

DOW INDUSTRIALS CLOSE AT 687.91

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market Friday ended an irregular week on a definite upbeat as chemicals, airlines, bowling issues and selected electronics-missiles made gains. Trading was active.

Volume slipped to 4.84 million shares from 5.17 million Thursday. Turnover on the New York Stock Exchange was below the 5.43 million shares traded on the smaller American Stock Exchange.

Records were unavailable to show when, if ever, the American Stock Exchange volume had exceeded the big board's. Some veteran Wall Streeters professed to know definitely that this had happened previously. Others swore it had not. The net result seems to be the start of a prolonged argument and much head scratching.

The American Stock Exchange volume compared with 4.48 million Thursday and was the largest on that exchange since Oct. 29, 1929 when the total was 7,096,300 shares.

Weekly volume on the American Stock Exchange was an all-time record 23,072,550 shares, topping the previous peak of 18,992,305 for the week ended April 7, 1961.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.42 to 687.91.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, starting off from Thursday's historic high, advanced .50 to a new peak of 247.50. The industrials were up .80, rails dropped .30 and utilities rose .40 to a new high for the year.

Of 1297 issues traded, 632 advanced and 433 declined. New highs for the year totaled 106 and new lows 5.

Production Marks 1st Rise Since July

WASHINGTON (AP) —Industrial production increased 2½ percent last month—the first advance since last July and the strongest since December 1959.

Reporting this Friday, the Federal Reserve Board hinted that further recovery from the mild recession may be expected this month.

It said May auto output is increasing, whereas it normally declines, and steel output this month is showing a further marked gain.

The board said its index measuring the output of mines, factories and utilities stood at 105 in April compared with 102 in March.

In the index, the 1957 average for production represents a base of 100, which means that April output was 5 per cent above the average for four years ago.

Increases were widespread for output of final products—goods used by consumers—and industrial materials, the board said. It also noted increases in employment and income and observed that prices of sensitive materials rose further.

Murchison Win Hinted In Alleghany Struggle

NEW YORK (AP)—Usually reliable sources said Friday the Murchison Brothers have won their proxy fight for control of the giant Alleghany Corp., which oversees $6.7 billion in assets.

In Dallas, Tex., after an airplane flight from New York, John D. Murchison declined comment. He led dissident stockholders seeking overthrow of Allan P. Kirby, Alleghany chairman.

A spokesman for the Kirby side said:

"The count is still going on. You aren't going to know who won until it is finished." Asked if he denied the reports, he repeated "the count is still going on."

The corporation's twice-recessed annual meeting, which started May 1, will be resumed next Thursday when the result may be announced.

One source in a good position to know said flatly "It's all over." He said Kirby had told close associates in the contest that they were beaten. An aide to Kirby said he had not been informed to this effect.

A second informant linked with the Kirby cause said he knew nothing of a concession by Kirby but that he himself had abandoned hope.

Alleghany, with a 15 percent block controls the $2.5-billion New York Central Railroad. It also controls Investors Diversified Services, a $3.7 billion investment company complex.

In Baltimore, Md., tellers finished the second week of sifting proxies and ballots deposited with them by holders of an estimated nine million Alleghany common shares. They will start up again Monday.

Regardless of the verdict they announce, Kirby, 68, long the monied and silent partner of the late Robert R. Young, will remain the biggest single shareowner.

His side owns or controls about 3,300,000 of Alleghany's 9,844,970 common shares, with all but a small fraction in Kirby's name.

Young, who died by his own hand in January, 1958, was Kirby's predecessor as chairman.

1st Quarter Market Advance Based On Hope, Not Earnings

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's advance in the first quarter was based more on hope than on actual corporate earnings, an investment advisory service said Friday.

The evaluation is based by Spear & Staff, Inc., on its study of sales and earnings in 15 key industries.

Only five of the industry groups were able to show higher income in the first three months of 1961 than in the comparable 1960 period.

These were petroleum, up 15.69 per cent; office equipment, 15.49 per cent; tobacco, 10.85 per cent; machinery, 2.91 per cent, and cosmetics-toiletries, 1.07 per cent.

The poorer performers included steel and iron, off 70.28 per cent; automobiles, 54.05 per cent; auto accessories, 53.23 per cent, and construction - building materials, 36.9 per cent.

"We believe the first quarter will prove to have been the worst for most companies with improvement coming in successive quarters," Spear said.

"Current demand for steels, electricals and machine tools may mark a renewal of interest in these laggards."

The present quiet reaction on the market is generally being viewed as a resting period preparatory to a further assault on the all-time highs but the longer it lasts the more difficult the assault will become, comments Winslow, Cohu & Stetson.

"We are inclined to be patient but watchful, still hopeful of new highs before too long, but prepared for a fairly sharp reaction if the 670 level on the Dow Jones industrial average is broken," the brokerage firm says.

"In a superheated speculative environment like the present, cooling off periods must be viewed with distinct suspicion.

"This still looks like a good time to buy the better acting groups and special situations, but discretion would seem to call for a little more discrimination than has been necessary since the beginning of the year."

The Value Line Investment Survey says a rising trend in business activity, gaining momentum as the year advances, seems assured for the balance of 1961 and probably for a good part of 1962.

It finds signs of progressive economic recovery in climbing steel production, expanded outstanding instalment credit, increasing new orders for machine tools, and a sharp April gain in the proportion of companies reporting a rising trend in output.

"The business prospect is clear: further improvement ahead," Value Line says. "Even so, the stock market in general is over-priced.

"Sooner or later, prices will conform to value as determined by earnings and dividends, wiping out the overvaluation of the past six years."

COLD WINTER, LATE SPRING DAMAGE CROPS

county farm agent, said Friday the oats situation was the worst in 25 years.

"This crop should be planted no later than April 15 to give a decent yield. This year only a handful of farmers got a chance to plow and plant their oats crops. Now it's too late. Oats is an early crop unable to stand late Summer temperatures," he said.

Halteman pointed out this would result in heavy financial losses to area farmers. They will not only have to sacrifice normally good profits, but shell out heavily for livestock feed next Winter.

JOSEPH H. HAY, associate Chester county agent, said the dilemma facing area housewives this Summer will be the great shortage of their favorite warm weather dish — sweet corn.

"Swarms of corn bores will be the farmers and consumer's number one headache", he said.

Hay explained the corn bore, which breeds through the larva, or egg stage, in the dead stalks of corn left in the ground during the Winter, breaks out of the corn stalk early in May.

"Usually farmers are able to check them by plowing in late April", Hay said. "But this year they've been thwarted by the rain and cold".

Hay said the corn bore problem, increasingly dangerous in the area in recent years, probably will get out of hand this Summer. This will result in losses of as high as one third of the total planting.

He emphasized this could cause a radical increase in prices of both sweet and fodder corn.

Corn bore damage occurs when young chutes of corn are attacked by the bores, and either cut off at the ground or badly weakened. One strong wind, Hay said, could complete the devastation.

GEORGE T. MANSELL, assistant Montgomery county agent, said the late arrival of Spring set vegetable garden planting back a full two weeks. Also retarded in growth were grass crops such as barley, wheat, hay and alfalfa.

"Unless this bad weather ends within a week," Mansell forecasted, "early harvests of grasses will be ruined."

"Farmers just won't be able to mow and harvest. Their feed supplies will dwindle, and they'll have real trouble next Winter."

Area folks accustomed to munching on their first fresh peach by early July probably will be sorely disappointed this year.

The peach crop, an area mainstay, suffered a loss of up to 50 percent of young trees the past six months. Forecasts are for the scimpiest harvest in 20 years.

AGENT HAY said this dismal forecast was the result of checks into the damage, caused by mice, rabbits, red mites and fungus infections to area crops.

Mice, a chronic source of headaches to orchard men, did the most damage to peach trees in two decades the past Winter.

Deprived of their regular diet of grass and roots by snow blanketing the area, they attacked peach orchards, and stripped thousands of young trees of bark, branches and blossoms.

Adding to the orchardmen's dilemma were frequent visits of late frost to the area during March and April. After frost and field mice, only 65 percent of all area peach trees remained unharmed.

The latest plague to peach growers were unusually high number of red mites and fungi hitting peach trees in the blossoming stages. Wet weather and erratic temperatures nourish this damaging twosome.

Local produce markets and consumers will have to depend on harvests of the Shenandoah valley of Tennessee and Virginia to make up for area losses. The result will be sharply increased prices.

To cap off this Springtime sabotage, shrubbery and flowers rotted and turned brown in great numbers the past two weeks.

Joseph Batchelor, owner of Batchelor's greenhouse, Snowdenville, said "boxwood and azaleas as much as 40 years old were killed in the current rainy spell."

"And the greenest of thumbs won't help the matter either," he averred. "The only thing the plants, and the entire Pottstown area, needs is a good, long dry spell."

Your Horoscope

The Stars Say—By ESTRELLITA

For Today

TODAY'S influences augur well for social programs and entertainment of every type. It is a day for happiness; for good domestic relationships, romance and courtships; also for taking short trips.

For The Birthday

If today is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that you can make the coming year an outstanding one if you push forth with confidence and foresight. Mobilize your efforts at once—especially on long-range projects—since the results you achieve between now and October will have a definite effect upon the way you wind up the year. In all matters be conservative, however.

Be tactful in personal relationships—especially during November. Don't let your occasional obstinacy lead you into difficulties with kith or kin. With controlled emotions, you should find most of your associations quite pleasant for most of the year.

For the single, July and August will be good for courtship and marriage; also for travel.

A child born on this day will be a kindly and understanding companion, extremely capable in any type of emergency.

Tomorrow

Tomorrow should prove a pleasant day. Most persons will be in congenial mood, and those engaged in creative enterprises will find generous influences highly inspiring. Home interests are strongly favored, too.

For The Birthday

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that the next six months should prove highly stimulating. From now until October, initiative and enterprise are favored, with success promised in sound business, financial and property dealings.

Except for a brief period in November, you should find family and social interests running smoothly. For the single, all of July and August will be excellent for romance and marriage. Look for a good financial break late in December—but don't, in an excess of optimism, go overboard in spending. Be especially careful to avoid extravagance in November.

A child born on this day will be artistically inclined and could be extremely talented as a scientist or a nurse.

5—Appear before the board for a personal interview.

"On the basis of these findings the board will recommend 11 candidates for each Air Force appointment, six candidates for each Navy appointment and four candidates for each Army appointment," Rep. Schweiker explained, "and I in turn will present them to the respective academies where they will be screened for final selection."

Under the law each Congressman can have no more than five midshipmen at Annapolis and four candidates at West Point at any one time and appointments are made only when vacancies exist. The Air Force academy allows each Congressman one appointment each year.

Candidates for the Coast Guard and Merchant Marine academies are handled under entirely different procedures and information on them, or the other three programs, can be obtained from Rep. Schweiker.

of Edward L. Gruber, Schuylkill road, North Coventry township, is known far and wide for the beauty of its trees and flowers, and has attracted enough attention in past years to cause traffic jams on Route 183.

DURING THE past week, scarcely a motorist passed the estate who did not slow up and gaze on the peaceful beauty of the trees. Many pulled to the side of the road to gaze more leisurely.

According to police, however, something had to be done about this. Route 183 is not too wide, and cars parked along the side can create a traffic hazard. To avoid this, police placed no parking signs on telephone poles along the edge of the estates, instructing motorists to use the authorized parking lot.

IF THE weather is sunny this afternoon, as predicted, thousands of local persons are expected to go from one colorful attraction — the school safety parade at 9 a. m., to another, the Gruber estates.

In addition to the colorful azalea beds and dogwoods at the Gruber estates, another mecca to flower lovers, the Valley Forge State park, is in full bloom and expected to attract thousands of visitors during the coming weeks.

Foundation Asks UF To Double Allocation

The National Cystic Fibrosis Research foundation requested Friday that the United Fund of Pottstown and vicinity double its 1962 allocation.

The organization, with area headquarters in Philadelphia, now receives $1000 from the United Fund. A spokesman for the foundation explained that one of every 700 children are born with the disease.

The UF also announced that the budget committee will meet Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. at the Citizens office of the Philadelphia National bank. Dinner will follow the budget meeting.

Woman Is Bitten By Pet Raccoon

Mrs. Mary Bender, Wilson avenue, Boyertown RD 1, was bitten by a pet raccoon on Friday afternoon.

She was taken to Pottstown hospital where her injury required two stitches. She was treated and released.

Blakely Killer Tried

grains of chloral hydrate in the stomach contents of each of the victims, a toxicological test showed. A "near lethal" amount of the poison, sometimes called "knockout drops," was given to the couple.

Announcement of use of the poison was made by District Attorney Harold E. Spencer.

The 20 grains of chloral hydrate discovered in each of the bodies is nearly three times the dosage usually given when it is used as a sedative, according to Dr. Jack R. Wennersten, Pottstown physician. The quantity actually given to the couple could have been considerably greater, the physician suggested "because a certain amount must have been absorbed in the body."

The drug can be secured at many drugstores but only with a doctor's prescription.

THE DRUG is known as "the original Mickey Finn." It has an odor but could be disguised in strong coffee, soda or liquor, Wennersten said. When combined with alcohol, its hypnotic effect is intensified.

Chloral hydrate comes in both capsule and liquid form. Police said a check of doctors and druggists in the Pottstown area failed to turn up any record that the drug was purchased or prescribed.

The gun that killed the Blakelys was a .22 calibre foreign make, probably with a 2 inch barrel. The weapon, still undiscovered, probably was of Czech, German or Italian make.

The district attorney pointed to robbery as a possible motive. Although the 61 year old Blakely was known to have carried large sums of money on his person at all times, none was found in his wallet or in the bedroom.

A TOTAL of $153 was found in the pockets of Mr. Blakely's jacket in the closet, and another $45 in Mrs. Blakely's handbag.

The announcement Friday came after the return of county officials and Pottstown Det. Sgt. Thomas Lawler from Blakely's native town, Augusta Springs, Va. Lawler, Montgomery county Det. Julius Roehner and Assistant County DA Thomas Waters spent a week and a half in the tiny community searching for leads in the month and a half old mystery and interviewing Blakely's relatives and acquaintances.

Lie detector tests given to persons in Virginia left questions as to the veracity of those tested, Spencer said. Authorities probably will return to Virginia in the near future to continue the investigation, the district attorney added.

In other aspects of the case police are stymied, Spencer said. He appealed to the public to provide police with any information that might help the investigation.

DETECTIVES particularly seek information on a pickup truck or car with Virginia license plates seen in the area of the Blakely home at the time of the murder and want descriptions of anyone seen in the vicinity of the scene of the murder.

When the Blakely's bodies were found Mrs. Blakely was lying on the floor at the foot of the bed with the bedspread pressed over her face and Mr. Blakely was lying on the bed. She was dressed in pajamas and he in underwear.

Both were shot through the chest, and both might have lived for a short period following the shooting. The bodies were not discovered until approximately 48 hours after the shooting. Police found all doors locked, windows spiked and blinds drawn in the two story home.

Drivers kill and cripple more children than any disease!

We have a vaccine for polio. And it works. Our best medical researchers say we're zeroing in on cancer. But what are we doing to wipe out the worst child killer of all—traffic accidents? Yes, drivers—careless drivers—kill and cripple more children than any disease! Here's one thing you can do. That everyone ought to do. Write to your local enforcement officials. Tell them:

"I Support Strict Law Enforcement!"

When officials know they have the backing of the community, they can do a far more effective job of protecting your children. In communities all over the country, the records prove it: Where traffic laws are strictly enforced and obeyed, deaths go down!

Drivers kill and cripple more children than any disease!

Think of careless driving as a disease . . . a terrible one. Completely relentless in its choice of victims. For not only do strangers kill other people's children, but parents may kill their own! What can we do to prevent these tragedies? We can dig in our heels and say, "Enough!" We can write our local enforcement officials and tell them:

"I Support Strict Law Enforcement!"

When police officers and judges know they have the support of their community, they can really crack down hard on the speeders and the light passers. They can do a more effective job of protecting your children. In community after community, the records prove it: Where traffic laws are strictly enforced and obeyed, deaths go down!

JOIN THE CRUSADE TO HELP PROMOTE SAFE DRIVING!

A FEW TIPS FOR BICYCLE RIDERS

Learn to ride a bicycle well before you go into a street or highway. Good riders never wobble. Never ride out of alleys and driveways or from behind parked cars without stopping and looking to see that the way is clear.

Observe all traffic regulations — red and green lights, one-way streets, and stop signs. For even greater safety, dismount and walk across busy intersections.

Use standard car driver arm signals when you are about to turn, stop, or slow down. Signals are given with the left arm.

Have a white light on front and red light or red reflector on rear for night. Be sure to have a bell or a horn to warn others that you are coming.

Service your bike and it will give good service to you. A straight line is a safe line. Don't suddenly change your course. Don't zigzag or do trick riding.

Bicycles are designed for just you alone. Do not carry anyone else. Keep both hands on the handlebars.

Ride in single file on busy streets and never more than two abreast at any time.

Ride under your own power. Do not hitch on. Keep well behind a moving vehicle. It may stop suddenly.

FAMILY COVENANT

Because of our love for each other and regard for the lives and safety of our fellow citizens, and realizing that a motor car has the power to maim and kill, we should solemnly join with each other in pledging strict adherence to these common-sense rules for safe driving.

1. We will drive always at reasonable speeds, being specially careful to keep within speed limits specified on city and village streets and ever alert for children who may dart into our path.

2. We will never be tempted to "show-off" or to race with other cars—or railroad trains.

3. We will slow down at intersections and look both ways before proceeding, and even though we may have the right of way we will never contest it with another.

4. We will observe all highway markings designed to promote safety, and will never, under any circumstances, cross a yellow line or similar warning marking in our own lane.

5. In passing another car on the highway, we will remember always to "look ahead of the car ahead." We will not pass another car on a hill or within 100 feet of an intersection.

6. We will not drive while under the influence of intoxicants or ride in a car driven by one who is under the influence of intoxicants.

Dear Johnny i
Teacher told us to write to the hospital and say I miss you.
I am sorry you got ran over did it hurt much?
I wasn't in a
a good fight ever since.
So hurry up and get better quick.
Your best friend,
Fred Williams Jr.
P.s.
I'll fight with one hand, too.

Drivers kill and cripple more children than any disease!

Pneumonia, cancer, polio—we're doing something to fight these child killers. Now let's start fighting the worst child killer of all—traffic accidents. Yes, drivers kill and cripple more children aged 1 to 14 than any disease. What can you do to curb careless drivers? You can stand up and be counted. You can write your local enforcement officials and say:

"I Support Strict Law Enforcement!"

Let your police and courts know you're behind their efforts to protect your children. For where traffic laws are strictly enforced and obeyed, deaths go down! Hundreds of communities have proved it. Every community can do better than it is doing!

Experts Give Advice On Laundering Cloths

One of the country's largest and most experienced manufacturers of lace tablecloths has this advice for laundering their handsome table linens; whether you wash by machine or hand, use warm soap or detergent suds instead of hot—and don't add bleach.

Rinse well in warm water, then gently squeeze out excess water — without wringing or twisting.

Machine drying is not recommended for a lace table cover, so hang it evenly over a clean, rustproof line to dry. If pressing is needed, use a warm iron while the cloth is slightly damp.

These simple instructions should keep a lace tablecloth in beautiful condition for years to come.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love & Marriage

Can This Father Of An Illegitimate Child Afford To Marry?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 18 years old and have been going with a boy who wants me to marry him, but there's a big problem I've just found out about.

I thought it was kind of funny that every time we talked about setting a date for our wedding, he'd agree on one and then a little later say he thought we'd better wait awhile.

When I asked him why, he'd say he wanted to have more money in the bank for us to start out on, but I could never get him to tell me just how much money he had or what he thought would be the right sum to put away in advance.

So the other night I finally told him I thought there must be some other reason and that maybe he didn't really want to marry me at all and kept putting it off so I'd get discouraged and break off with him. I said there might even be some other girl he hadn't told me about.

Then I got the truth out of him, which was that a couple of years ago he had a baby by another girl and ever since then she has been hounding him for money and he just doesn't have enough to keep paying her and take care of a wife, too.

Don't you think if he really loved me enough he'd find a way for us to get married? Maybe you think it's funny that I can love him even though I know this about him, but I know he's sorry he ever did such a thing and I believe him when he says he'd always be faithful to me, so what are we going to do?

F. T.

Dear F. T.:

Although you haven't said so, I take it that this fellow has never talked his problem over with anyone who would be in a position to advise him wisely, but has just been struggling along to handle things himself.

Perhaps, even, he has never told anyone at all about this episide in his life and can't bring himself to do it.

However, if he's ever to get his life straightened out, he'll certainly have to get expert advice from someone sooner or later and it certainly seems to me that the time he should do this is right now.

I think he should start by confiding in his pastor or priest, who should be able to direct him to the proper person to give him the practical help he needs in order to work out a fool-proof solution. Possibly the girl is financially able to take care of herself and the baby, but feels so bitter toward him that she keeps hounding him for money out of revenge, wanting to make him suffer.

On the other hand, she may be in real need. And anyhow he of course has a legal obligation toward the baby.

The only way to arrive at some decision that will be right and fair to both of these two is to lay facts before a fully qualified advisor. For him to try any arrangement made on his own would simply be asking for trouble.

I agree with you that if he loved you enough to be sincere about wanting to marry you, he'd find some way of making it possible.

Rusk Will Face Gromyko For Showdown on Laos

GENEVA (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk decided early Saturday to meet Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko face to face to see if they could solve the issue of who should speak for the Laotian people at the East-West conference on Laos.

Wrangling over the Soviet Union's insistence that the pro-Communist Pathet Lao be given full status as a government at the conference table prevented the 14-nation meeting from getting under way Friday as planned.

There were suggestions among the big Western delegations that perhaps it would be better not to hold the conference at all.

Rusk's decision to meet Gromyko became known following a dinner party arranged by Lord Home, British foreign secretary.

Lord Home also made plans to see Gromyko.

The outcome may determine whether the conference, called according to both sides to seek means of making Laos a peaceful and neutral nation, eventually gets started or not.

Rusk has firmly rejected the seating of the Pathet Lao faction with full governmental status. Not even the Soviet Union has recognized it as a government but wants it seated with equality with the pro-Western government of Premier Prince Boun Oum.

Fighting to keep the Communist camp from winning a strategic edge in the jump-off stage at the bargaining table, Rusk advanced two firm demands that prevented the conference from opening Friday as scheduled.

First, Rusk insisted there could be no conference unless there was certification from the three-nation International Control Commission in Laos that an actual cease-fire existed. He was satisfied on that point by a report from the Indian-Canadian-Polish commission.

Second, Rusk refused to agree that the pro-Communist Pethet Lao could be seated at the conference as though it were a government of Laos, as the Soviets demanded. He said the Pathet Lao could not claim full governmental status with the same standing as Premier Boun Oum's pro-Western regime.

It was on this point that efforts to open the conference broke down.

Although some delegates persisted through the day in believing the talks might get under way

ANDREI GROMYKO

Saturday, a British spokesman said it was not likely they could begin until Monday or Tuesday.

Rusk argued that Pathet Lao was not a government in any sense, that it was not recognized as such by the Soviet Union or Red China, that it was not even a political party, that it was only a military group in a state of insurrection.

The secretary of state was largely supported in his views by the British and French. America's two big allies felt, however, that there must be room somehow to work out a solution of the representation issue.

In private dinner talks British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, India's V.K. Krishna Menon, Canada's Howard Green and Rusk worked over these ideas on the problem:

1. Start the conference with an "empty chair" arrangement. No Laotians would be present at all in the early proceedings, and the conference itself could tackle the representation issue.

2. Double representation, with delegations present from Boun Oum's Vientiane government and from the so-called neutralist faction of Prince Souvanna Phouma, still recognized as premier by the Soviet Union.

3. A three-sided set-up, with representatives admitted from the Vientiane government, the neutralists and the Pathet Lao, but only as observers.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko insisted on full and active participation by all three.

The Soviet news agency Tass accused Rusk of playing a "hypocritical double game" of sit-down strikes and inventing ways of preventing the conference from getting on its feet.

The Western powers, said Tass, "cannot count on continuing their game endlessly" or they "will eventually stand before the world as supporting the continuation of war in Laos."

KHRUSHCHEV CLAIMS WAR IS USELESS

Premier Declares Qommunism Will Triumph

ASTRONAUT FLIGHT IS BELITTLED

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev insists communism will gain control of the world one day—and without using bayonets or rockets. The Soviet people, he declared, are "the most free" people in the world.

His voice hoarse from shouting, Khrushchev told a rally Friday of 10,000 persons in the Georgian capital of Tiflis:

"I repeat that we do not need a war to achieve domination of our ideas, the most progressive Marxist-Leninist ideas. War brings only harm. We will create this victory because other peoples will follow in the path of our example."

Khrushchev ignored cold war hot spots such as Laos, Cuba and the Geneva conference on Laos in his speech commemorating the 40th anniversary of the Georgian Republic.

"We are ready to talk, to build up our relations with any country in order to secure peace in the world," he said.

Khrushchev shouted frequently throughout his speech but saved his loudest roars to deny Western allegations that the Soviet people are not free.

"They say we do not have freedom," he shouted. "We Communists, we revolutionaries, we are the most free of the free people in the world. We have freedom for those who create value, who work in mines, factories, laboratories. But there is no freedom in the Soviet Union for those who robbed people, took profits and led a fast life on the riches taken from the people."

Khrushchev twice referred to President Kennedy.

He quoted the U.S. President as saying there are grounds to fear the attraction communism has for underdeveloped nations. Khrushchev said this statement "pleased me very much" and he then declared that during the past 40 years the Soviet Union has become the greatest industrial country of the world.

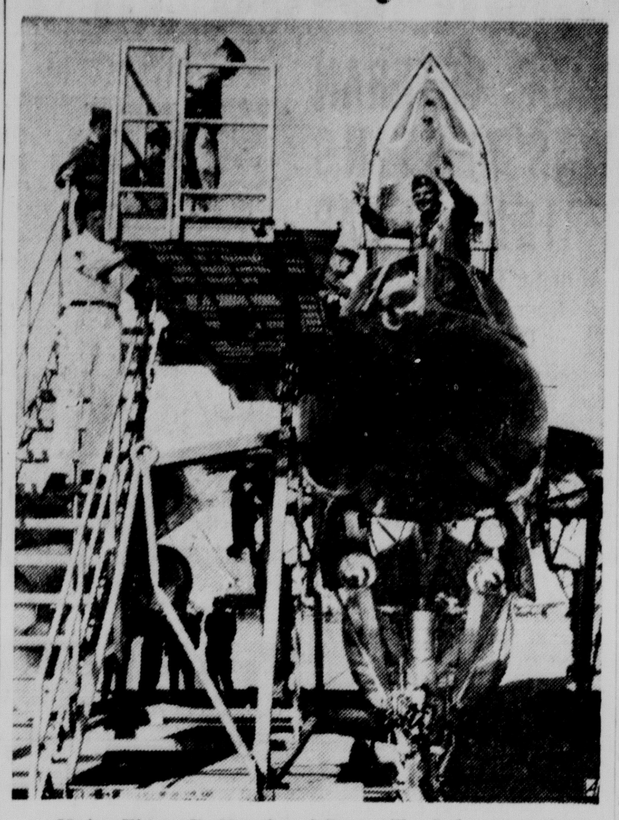

The stocky Soviet premier took time at this point to scold Georgian leaders for building the ornate sports palace in which he was speaking. He said they would have done better to build housing for those Russians "who live in half-ruined houses."

Khrushchev's second reference to Kennedy was a reminder that all nations live on the same planet and therefore must coexist.

He had a few kind words for a local boy who made good, name of Joseph Stalin. Khrushchev called him "one of the outstanding leaders of social democracy in Georgia and the whole Caucasia."

As to the U.S. man-in-space shot a week ago, Khrushchev said it was just a "leap" and added: "We believe the Americans will repeat what we have done—but only repeat, mark you, what we have already done."

Nazi Death Camp Children Required to Play Happily

JERUSALEM (AP) — Jewish children were forced to play happily before visiting Red Cross inspectors at a Nazi death camp and sick, starving inmates were hidden, a witness at the Adolf Eichmann trial testified Friday.

Starvation and dysentery made people "die like flies" and the insane were kept naked in a stable out of sight of any visitor, German-born Mordechai Ansbacher told the court.

Eichmann listened attentively as Ansbacher, 34, a German-born survivor of the Nazi extermination machinery, described conditions in the Theresienstadt camp in Czechoslovakia. The defendant once told interrogators the camp was planned to be a beautiful town.

Ansbacher said the camp was meant to house Jewish war veterans of World War I and prominent Jews.

"They hoped they would not be sent on to the extermination camps in the East," Ansbacher told the court. "Of course, in the end, they were sent as well."

When two Red Cross delegations visited the camp in 1944, a phantom town was set up, he testified, adding: "The ghetto was turned upside down in a beautifying operation. The houses were newly painted and giant signs were put up, saying 'central school' and 'ghetto theater.'

"They set up a special home for children with ponies and nice toys. Hearts were carved on the childrens' beds.

"Only those people who still looked like humans were allowed to show themselves on the streets."

Ansbacher said the Red Cross did not visit locked up buildings where sick and starving people almost certainly were doomed to die without medical assistance.

The testimony was introduced to describe what happened to German Jews in the extermination campaign Israel charges was directed by Eichmann as the officer in charge of the Gestapo's Bureau for Jewish Affairs.

Most people arriving at the camp did not know that hunger and death lay ahead, Ansbacher said.

"Once, there was a group of Danish Jews who arrived wearing top hats, tails and walking sticks," he testified.

Ansbacher said these men apparently had been rounded up while on their way to an official event.

"I saw millionaires diving into a barrel to pick up potato peels," Ansbacher said. "But people always would address them with their titles, saying 'Excuse me, herr doctor' and 'after you, herr councillor.'"

Theresienstadt inmates were shipped off to the death factories in Poland by the thousands.

Ansbacher was taken to Auschwitz late in 1944 but for some unexplained reason was moved to the Dachau concentration camp near Munich 10 days later.

"When we arrived, SS (elite guard) men escorted us to the camp singing the world would be happier if all the Jews had drowned in the Red Sea."

After another six months filled with horror, with bodies piling up at the Dachau camp gate, Ansbacher was liberated by the U.S. Army.

The change in the Nazi anti-Jewish policy in the first years of World War II was illustrated in a series of prosecution documents.

Assistant prosecutor Yaakov Bar'or quoted from minutes of a Berlin meeting in November 1940 at which Eichmann "expressed his serious misgivings about a mass deprivation of citizenship from German Jews."

The prosecutor said Eichmann felt such measures would hamper emigration.

"We see the accused caring for his main object here, the mass expulsion of Jews from the Reich in any way possible."

Less than a year later, in August 1941, another prosecution document quoted Eichmann as saying that "in the light of the final solution" — extermination — he was against permitting Jews to pass through Germany on their way to safety.

Senate Committees Will Press Check On Cuba Invasion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Senate subcommittees announced plans to press their Cuban investigations Friday as news arrived that Prime Minister Fidel Castro had cut off all motor traffic to the U.S. naval base in Guantanamo Bay.

The Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on Latin-American Affairs said it would question Adolf A. Berle Monday on his role in last month's disastrous attempt by Cuban exiles to invade their Caribbean land and overthrow Castro.

Berle, an advisor to Secretary of State Dean Rusk, heads the State Department's task force on Latin America.

The Senate Internal Security subcommittee said it has directed Richard Gibson to produce records Tuesday identifying the members of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. Gibson is acting secretary of the pro-Castro committee.

The Navy disclosed the halt in auto and bus traffic to the Guantanamo base, which lies in Cuban territory.

The Navy said the halt, enforced by Cuban militia, was an attempt to harrass the U.S. base.

The base employs 3,200 Cubans, most of whom live in cities more than 20 miles away. They come to Guantanamo by commercial bus or car pool. At the base, they hold a variety of jobs such as ship repair, ordnance, electrician, clerical and custodial.

Once it found out about the halt, the Navy said, it used its own buses to meet the workers at the gate and drive them to their jobs. The U.S. buses are not permitted by Cuban authorities to leave the base.

The Navy said all work on the Guantanamo base was proceeding normally, despite the harrassment.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., chairman of the Latin-American Affairs subcommittee, would not detail what his group expected to learn from Berle, a former assistant secretary of state and ambassador to Brazil.

But Morse told a newsman: "I'm of the opinion there is a great deal of information the subcommittee doesn't know about in connection with this invasion.

"We hope witnesses will be called during next week who will give us the whole story."

Morse said Tuesday's hearing would be closed to the public.

The Internal Security subcommittee is calling Gibson for the second time. It questioned him on April 25, and he invoked the Fifth Amendment, refusing to answer several questions on the grounds that his answers might tend to incriminate him.

The subcommittee has directed Gibson to produce records Tuesday identifying members and the locations of all Fair Play for Cuba Committee chapters, particularly those on college campuses.

Meanwhile, Sen. John Marshall Butler, R-Md., urged the United States to cut off all trade with Cuba.

"But this economic pressure may not be enough," he added in a radio report to his constituents. "There may come a day before very long when direct military action may be necessary. It may come following an attempt by Castro to take over Guantanamo Bay."

Johnson Says America Will Support Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, shirtsleeved and dripping with perspiration, carried a slam-bang, people-to-people campaign to the streets and thatched huts of South Viet Nam's countryside Friday.

He commented that President Ngo Dinh Diem will throw everything at his disposal into the war against communism. And the United States, he added at a palace reception, "will be by his side every step of the way," to help South Viet Nam wage war against Red guerrillas.

Johnson made clear he will not recommend to President Kennedy that American combat forces be stationed here.

"If we furnish support they will furnish manpower," he told reporters.

This did not rule out a stepped-up training program by the U. S. military advisers to Viet Nam's armed forces, which are being increased from 150,000 to 170,000 men.

The United States has agreed in principle to support more military aid and a still further increase in size of forces if the situation warrants.

During Johnson's grass-roots tour thousands of Vietnamese responded with a wave of friendliness.

Johnson made 15 impromptu speeches, telling the villagers the United States and South Viet Nam will work together to banish disease, poverty and ignorance—the "partners of the Communists."

Under the watchful eyes of police, hundreds of villagers almost mobbed Johnson during one speech, struggling to grasp the American's outstretched hands.

Johnson described the day as one of the most memorable of his life. He left the relative security of downtown Saigon to make a 30-mile round-trip into the guerrilla-threatened countryside.

Behind his demonstration was a purpose — showing South Viet Nam's government leaders they could move much closer to their people if they tried. The U. S. State Department has been urging such a course in policy papers and Johnson showed them how.

Johnson had nearly three hours of private talks with Diem.

It is reported President Kennedy sent Johnson on this fact-finding tour of Asian hot spots with authority to offer Diem $40 million more a year in arms aid. The United States is expected to increase the number of military advisers here from 650 to 1,650 officers and men, including some tough Ranger experts in guerrilla warfare.

Prior to departing for Manila, Johnson told hundreds of government and diplomatic guests at the palace reception that Diem compares with Britain's World War II Prime Minister, Winston Churchill.

The other side in the East-West conflict has gained a few victories, Johnson said, just as Hitler did.

"But the side of freedom and independence is not going to give ground."

"We're going to win out because we're a can-do people," he said.

Johnson's talks with Diem, strongman ruler since this nation gained independence from France in 1954, was the first he has had with a head of state on this tour.

The meeting was "beyond any expectations I had," Johnson said. "We reached complete meeting of minds regarding President Kennedy's and President Diem's idea of what ought to be done and how and where to do it."

To Head Drive

David L. Hackett was named executive director of the government's committee on juvenile delinquency and youth crime. The appointment in Washington coincided with President Kennedy's message to Congress asking authorization for a five-year program of federal action to combat juvenile delinquency.

France Cancels Gagarin Invitation

PARIS (AP) — The French Aeronautics Industries Association cancelled its invitation Friday to Soviet spaceman Yuri Gagarin to attend its Space Day program May 31.

No reason was made public, but there was speculation that Space Day organizers felt Gagarin's appearance in Paris while President Kennedy is here visiting President Charles de Gaulle would not be opportune.

Stabbed Contractor Found in Town Dump

FREDERIKSBERG, Finland (AP)—The body of contractor Kauko Partinen, 33, was found seated in an easy chair on the town dump here Friday. He had been stabbed to death. Police arrested 20 persons who had attended a party with Partinen the night before.

Kennedy Enjoys Florida Sunshine

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy enjoyed ideal weather Friday — and some swimming, sunbathing and golfing.

But he kept a wary eye on far-away Geneva. He was advised of the postponement of a 14-nation conference of Communist-bloc and anti-Communist nations that is supposed to determine the destiny of Laos.

'Basil the Owl' Is Given Parole From Prison

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) —Ailing and nearly blind, Basil (The Owl) Banghart, once described as "the most crime-wise man in the nation," was granted a parole Friday from Stateville Penitentiary after serving 27 years for kidnaping.

But the former lieutenant of the prohibition-era Roger Touhy gang won't leave the prison near Joliet for at least a week. A spokesman for the Illinois Parole and Pardon Board said it will require a week or more for Banghart to show that he has made satisfactory arrangements for employment and a suitable home.

A provision of his parole is that Banghart, 60, will not voluntarily participate in any publicity activities concerning his controversial case. The board further barred the former beer-runner, mail-robber and kidnaper from personal appearances on stage, screen, radio or television while he is on parole.

The board fixed the probationary period of his parole at five years, as it has done for other notorious convicts.

The parole board's decision granting Banghart parole was unanimous.

Banghart, once on the FBI list of most-wanted criminals, and Roger Touhy, leader of the "Terrible Touhy's" of the prohibition-era gang wars in Chicago, were sentenced in 1934 for the kidnaping of John (Jake the Barber) Factor.

Factor, a onetime barber on Chicago's West Side who later became a wealthy broker, reportedly paid $100,000 ransom to members of the Touhy mob for his freedom. The alleged kidnaping occurred in August 1933. Factor now lives in Los Angeles.

The Point Spread...

By WARREN HOWARD
(Mercury Sports Writer)

WHAT A WORLD IT WOULD BE for the track and field buff, if meets were scheduled so that there were no two held on the same day, especially in the light of some performances that were turned in last week.

It so happened, that on the same day that Bob Stringfellow lopped off a five-year-old record for the mile run in the Venzke Relays at 4:38.8, Bob McIlvain beat this one by more than 12 seconds in a "practice" meet.

McIlvain

Stringfellow

And away down at the bottom of the page—completely lost in the shuffle — is Jim Oehlert's record - shattering performance in the 880 yards at Lafayette college. They all happened the same day.

With a little stretching of the imagination, it is conceivable to assume that Oehlert—a Spring-Ford graduate who captains the Lafayette unit—was clipping off his half-mile mark at the same time that McIlvain was laying his own Hill record to rest.

BUT WHAT MAKES Oehlert's record all the more impressive is the fact that he had virtually no running experience in high school, since track and field are in their maiden at Spring-Ford. It could serve as an incentive to future Rams.

Oehlert is the defending Middle Atlantic conference (university division) 880 champion, and will bid for his second crown this afternoon on the Lafayette track.

McIlvain ran second to Hill captain Major White a year ago, but the pair ran to several dead-heat finishes. It was last Winter in Lawrenceville, N. J., in an indoor meet however, that his full potential was bared.

At that time, McIlvain stepped off a 4:30 mile on the Lawrenceville indoor track, and it was evident that he would lop off the record again, outdoors. The indoor performance still stands out however, since the added turns make indoor times generally slower.

IRONICALLY, IN THIS same meet, another Hill runner—Pres Layton—broke two minutes for the 880 yards, and this too, went almost unnoticed, because McIlvain also holds the 880 yard record at The Hill.

And, should he choose to go after them, he could probably also hold the record for the 440 and 220 yards. Because McIlvain is one of those oh, so rare runners who can perform well at just about any distance.

The case of Bob Stringfellow is different from that of both McIlvain and Oehlert for two reasons: (a) Stringfellow has yet another year of scholastic eligibility, and (b) he has trouble setting his own pace.

But Stringfellow has that same effortless stride, and when running, he gives the appearance of one for whom the sky is the limit. Like Ron Delany, if he ran full out, he would still seem to be taking it easy.

HE IS A VERY STRONG finisher, but unless some strong competition is located, he will probably never run the "real fast" mile as a schoolboy. But he will win in Berks county, because the guy who tries to beat him must open a lead, and he will be plotting his own downfall.

He will only be setting a pace for the Boyertown dasher, and in the end, must succumb to Stringfellow's kick. It was his finish that brought him the record Wednesday, but the opposition failed to make a battle of it in the stretch.

All three of these record events happened on the same day. There may be more this afternoon, what with all the championship meets being held. And still more next Saturday. And all these meets are likewise scheduled the same day.

Of course, in track, as in every other sport, there has to be a loser. And now Bruce Carter, who barely missed breaking two minutes for the 880 at The Hill last Wednesday, must know how Mickey Mantle felt in 1957, when Ted Williams was hitting .388 to win the batting crown.

RACE VETERAN WAS TESTING FRIEND'S CAR

Anchor Bolt In Stearly Special Falls Out, Causes Crash

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Tony Bettenhausen, racing veteran and idol of auto speed fans on the American professional circuit, died Friday in the violent, fiery crash of a car he was testing for a friend. The crash ended a 23-year racing career.

Something broke and threw the hurtling racer owned by Doug Stearly of Collegeville, Pa., into the wall along the main straightaway at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where trials begin Saturday for the Indianapolis 500 on Memorial Day.

It was the 29th racing wreck — and the last — for Bettenhausen, two-time champion of the AAA—now USAC—big car circuit. The father of two boys and two girls was dead when guards fought their way through screaming, horrified fans to where the shattered car hung wrapped in wire atop the wall.

So frightening was the impact that 250 feet of fence was ripped away.

Bettenhausen, 44, had turned several laps at 145 miles an hour in the car in which Rodger Ward won the 1959 Indianapolis "500." He was checking it for Paul Russo, an old friend with whom he took turns driving the car that finished second in the 1955 Memorial Day classic.

In his own car, the Autolite Special, Bettenhausen had been a strong favorite to take top honors Saturday in the opening session of qualifications for this year's race. He had turned a practice lap Wednesday at 149.254 miles an hour—fastest ever run at the speedway with other cars on the track.

The right front tire and wheel of the car were still intact after his smashup Friday.

Bettenhausen lived in Tinley Park, Ill., where he was born, and farmed 600 acres of corn and soybean land with the help of two teen-age sons, Gary 19, and Merle 17. He also is survived by his wife, Valerie, and two daughters, Susan, 15, and Tony Lee, 9.

Popularly known as "The Tinley Park Express" on the pro circuit, Bettenhausen had raced with gusto and ready quips in everything from midget car sprints to the Mexican road race.

The stocky little Dutchman with the blond burr haircut was a fierce competitor but widely admired in the racing fraternity.

"Always," said Rodger Ward, "he was the man to beat in any race."

Tony was one of the few active drivers with experience going beyond World War II.

He won the 1951 national championship in the famous Belanger Special, capturing races at Milwaukee, Langhorne, Springfield, Ill.; Syracuse, Denver, San Jose and two at Du Quoin, Ill. He repeated in 1958 on consistent placing without winning a race.

Bettenhausen was coming smoothly down the middle of the main stretch when the car suddenly jerked to the right and into the low concrete wall and steel fence in front of the grandstands.

The car ripped down 25 feet of fence and five iron posts and came to a stop upside down on the wall, just short of the box seats in front of grandstand A, one of the mammoth two-deckers near the starting line.

The affable driver, who said he would retire if he ever won the rich Indianapolis race, had started in every 500 but one since World War II but his second with Russo was his best finish. He took fourth money in both 1958 and 1959. Last year he was stopped by a broken connecting rod.

A 10-man USAC invsetigating board looked over the car, which was owned by Douglas Stearly of Collegeville, Pa., and called the Stearly Special, and gave this reason for the crash: "An anchor bolt fell out of the front radius rod support, allowing the front axle to twist and misalign when the brakes were applied."

The board included Russo and former drivers Henry Banks, now USAC director of competition, and Freddie Agabashian.

Bettenhausen's death was the 53rd at the old racing plant, opened in 1909 as a dirt track. He was the 30th driver killed. The toll includes 14 mechanics and nine spectators—two of the latter killed last year in the collapse of a home-made scafford in the infield.

Brookside Women Win Final, 6-1

The Brookside first team reeled off wins in the first six matches Friday afternoon, and closed out their Philadelphia Golf association season on a high note, topping Philadelphia country club second, 6-1 on the local course.

It was the third straight triumph for the Brookside unit, which lost its first two matches of the season. The winless visitors salvaged only the final match on the program.

Not so fortunate however, were the Brookside Seconds, who dropped their 18th Cup final, 7-0 to Moorestown.

The match at Brookside was played under threatening skies on a course made soggy by all-night rains, but hardly proved a deterrent to the homesters, who closed out their season with a 3-2 record.

THE VICTORY left the homesters in a three-way tie for second place with LuLu Temple First and Gulph Mills Third, behind Cup champion Philadelphia Cricket club Second, which lost one match.

Meanwhile, the Spring - Ford country club First topped Phoenixville First, 5-2, to close out with a 4-1 log and a tie with Aronomink Second and Bala First for first place in the Seventh cup.

The three will now play off for the top spot, and the right to challenge the winless Philadelphia CC unit for its spot in the Sixth Cup.

The tie was brought about by Aronomink's 6-1 victory over the Bala First, the initial loss incurred by the latter unit.

* * *

IN THE 18th cup, the Brookside Second closed with a 2-3 slate for the season, two positions removed from the cup cellar, occupied by Ashbourne Fourth (0-5).

Winners for the Brookside First were Mrs. William Beaver, Mrs. Richard Haury, Mrs. Ed Hunnicutt, Mrs. Morris Gavin, Mrs. Martin Feit and Mrs. William Pollock.

The only loser among the localites was Mrs. Harold Federman, who was beaten by Mrs. George Vanderbeck in a match that went to the 20th hole.

The Spring-Ford Second topped Aronomink Third, 4-3 for its third victory.

COATESVILLE FAVORED FOR LOOP DIADEM

Foster Defends Shot Championship at W. Chester

Coatesville's Red Raiders will bid for their eighth Ches-Mont league track and field crown in 10 years this afternoon on the West Chester High cinders.

The Red Raiders and host Warriors are favored to slug it out for the championship, and in fact, the Warriors could pull an upset by taking the meet.

In a dual meet some weeks ago, the Warriors outscored the Raiders in first places, but lost the meet to the Coatesville depth.

Conestoga, Pottstown High and Downingtown figure to scrap it out for third place, with Owen J. Roberts, Spring Ford and Phoenixville battling for the leavings.

THE TROJANS enter the meet with the possibility of three first places, and placings in several other events, but Coach Heber T. Meyers doesn't figure his squad a threat for the crown.

Off past performances, the Trojans could muster firsts in the shot put, 880 yards and broad jump, but it would take top performances to bring it off.

Jim Foster, a Junior using the last of his track eligibility, will seek to defend his title in the shot put. He has a toss this year of 52 feet, nine inches.

His chief competition is expected to come from Coatesville's Cliff Kennedy, to whom Foster lost in a dual meet, but whom he outdistanced at the Ches-Mont Relays last month.

ALSO IN the running is West Chester Sophomore John Hagee, who also has beaten Foster in a dual meet. This was before the Trojan reached the 50-foot mark. Hagee also has a 51-foot plus toss.

In the broad jump, the Trojans' Bronk Glenn leaped 21 feet, 5½ inches against Coatesville in a dual meet, but will run head-on into Jon Morse of West Chester, a consistent 21-foot jumper.

Sophomore Bruce Carter, who ran a 2:02 half-mile against The Hill school "unofficially" last Wednesday, is the Trojan hope in the 880 yards, but West Chester's Jim Johnston is favored.

Also in the running are Conestoga's Jim Kennedy and Kent Overton, Coatesville's Bill Jones and Mike Randler.

The Trojans figure to pick up a few points in the 440, the pole vault, the javelin and the high jump, where Glenn has a 5-10 leap on record.

There is the distinct possibility however, that the Meyersmen will be shut out in the hurdles and sprints.

Dodgers, Behind Koufax' 4-Hitter, Down Cubs 4-2; Tie for First Spot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Strikeout artist Sandy Koufax turned back the Chicago Cubs Friday night 4-2, fanning 11 and allowing only four hits as the Los Angeles Dodgers took the series opener before 17,122 fans.

Ron Santo tripled in the ninth for the Cubs. Koufax filled the bases with two walks and then walked in the Cubs' fifth run on a pass to Sammy Taylor.

The victory propelled the Dodgers into a virtual tie with the San Francisco Giants for the National League leadership.

Sammy Taylor tripled in the ninth for the Cubs. Koufax filled the bases with two walks and then walked in the Cubs' fifth run on a pass to Sammy Taylor.

Dick Farrel, fireballing right-hander, came in and Bob Will lined a single to left, scoring Richie Ashburn with Chicago's other run.

SPAHN TAMES GIANTS, 5-4

Braves' Homers Deal Sam Jones 2d Setback

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Crafty old Warren Spahn, aided by three home runs, frustrated San Francisco with his pitching arm and his glove Friday night as the Milwaukee Braves trimmed the Giants 5-4.

Hank Aaron, Lee Maye and Ed Mathews socked home runs for the Braves. But Spahn, working his fifth complete game of the season, ended four Giant threats by having hitters tap back to him.

Spahn, who pitched a no-hitter the last time he faced the Giants two weeks ago, scattered eight hits.

Palermo Denies Leonard 'Threat'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Philadelphia fight manager, denied in Federal court Friday that he ever threatened to gouge out the eyes of former Hollywood Fight Promoter Jackie Leonard.

Palermo testified in his own behalf at the trial where he and four others are charged with extortion and conspiracy. The government claims they tried to "muscle in" on the earnings of former Welterweight Champion Don Jordan.

Government Prosecutor Alvin H. Goldstein asked Palermo if he had ever used such threats as "people are going to get hurt, and I mean dead" and "I'll gouge your eyes out." Palermo replied:

"There never was no hurtin' in this matter. I was never mad at Leonard."

Earlier, Leonard had testified that he had been "scared to death" by the defendants.

Lary Tops Yanks—Again With HR Off Coates, 4-3

NEW YORK (AP)—Right-hander Frank Lary continued his whammy over the New York Yankees by slugging a tie-breaking home run in the ninth inning that gave the Detroit Tigers a 4-3 victory Friday night and a 3½-game lead in the American League race.

The home run, off losing reliever Jim Coates, opened up the ninth and came on the heels of a player-fan fuss that wound up with Tiger slugger Rocky Colavito ejected from the game for leaving the field and Detroit playing under protest.

Colavito, a native of the Bronx, in which Yankee stadium is located, ran into the stands when he saw a fan take a swing at his father. The young Colavito was coming in from the outfield at the end of the eighth inning when he spotted the fight in the stands.

He said later that the fight actually had been broken up by police before he left the field of play to enter the stands.

Lary's shot, into the left field seats, was his first of the year and made him the first five-game winner in the AL with his second victory over the second-place Yanks. The 30-year-old veteran now has a 5-8 lifetime record against New York and has the best percentage (.758) ever run up against the Yankees.

Gentile's 10th Blast Gives Orioles 4-2 Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jim Gentile drove in two runs with his 10th homer and Brooks Robinson got three singles in four trips to lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Friday night.

Gentile's fourth inning clout gave him the American League home run lead and boosted his league-leading RBI total to 35. It was the first start this season for the left-handed batter against a southpaw pitcher.

The victory went to Jack Fisher, who finished strong to win his first game in three decisions. The 22-year-old right-hander gave up six hits in the first four innings and then retired 14 batters in a row before Jim Piersall reached first base on a throwing error by shortstop Jerry Adair in the ninth.

Johnny Antonelli, making his fifth try for his first American League victory, lost his fourth. The 31-year-old southpaw gave up seven hits and the Orioles' four runs in the 3 1-3 innings he worked.

Barry Latman and Frank Funk blanked the Birds on three hits over the last 5 2-3 frames.

The Indians broke on top with a run in the first inning on three consecutive singles after the first two batters had been retired.

Monbouquette Fans 17; Defeats Senators 2-1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bill Monbouquette struck out 17 batters, one shy of the modern major league record, as he pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 2-1 victory over the Washington Senators Friday night.

The 17 strikeouts removed from the Red Sox book a 50-year-old record. Smokey Joe Wood set the club mark of 15 strikeouts in 1911.

The modern major league record is 18, set by Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians in 1938 and tied by Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1959.

Monbouquette's feat, matched earlier this season by Art Mahaffey of the Philadelphia Phillies, also goes down as a record for a night game in the American League. The previous high of 14 was held by four pitchers—Feller, Bob Turley, Early Wynn and Jim Bunning.

Ironically, the Senators outhit the Red Sox 5-2. The Sox got both hits off Pete Burnside, who went seven innings and lost his second game. He has no victories. Burnside walked six and struck out three.

Ramos Pitches Third Win, Drives In 3 Runs as Twins Nip Angels 5-4

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) —Pitcher Pete Ramos abandoned his switch hitting tactics Friday and drove in three runs in the Minnesota Twins' 5-4 triumph over the Los Angeles Angels.

The Cuban hurler, who says he is hitting right-handed to take advantage of the wind blowing toward left field, poled his first homer of the season to tie the score at 3-3 in the fifth inning and singled home the winning runs in the sixth. Three walks preceded Ramos' single.

Ramos struck out eight in running his season record to 3-2. He needed ninth inning relief from Ray Moore after Earl Averill led off the frame with his sixth homer.

Angels Manager Bill Rigney was ejected in the seventh when he protested a called strike on Albie Pearson.

Ken Hunt's fifth home run with Leon Wagner aboard gave the Angels a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning. It was the first hit of the game.

RECORDS FALL IN MAC MEET

Ursinus' Morgan Clicks 1:56.9 Clocking In 880

EASTON, Pa. (AP) — Records fell in both the University and College divisions Friday as the Middle Atlantic conference track and field meet opened with qualifying events.

The finals and all field events are scheduled for Saturday in the Lafayette college stadium.

St. Joseph's Joe Reilly twice snapped the record in the University division 220-yard low hurdles.

He was timed in 24.2 seconds in the preliminary heat and cut one-tenth of a second from that mark in the semifinals. The former record was 24.5 seconds held by three men.

JOHN LIEB, another St. Joseph's sprinter erased the 220-yard dash mark by two-tenths of a second. His time was 0:21.7.

LeSalle teammates took turns setting 120-high hurdle marks. Tom Maher snapped the record of 0:15.1 he set last year in the first heat. His time was a flat 15 seconds. But Joe Tyler took one-tenth of a second from that mark in the second heat.

Two records were set in the College division, the most outstanding by Ursinus' Vernon Morgan in the 880. Morgan was clocked at 1:56.9, bettering all times in the university division and erasing the college mark of 1:57.7.

West Chester's Don Jones broke the 220-yard dash record with a flat 22 seconds and Viscount Nelson, also of West Chester tied the 220-low hurdle standard of 0:24.3.

All records are as of 1959 when the conference divided into the University and College divisions.

CARDS THUMP PHILS 5-1 ON LANDRUM H.R.

St. Louis Hands Philly Nine 10th Loss In Row

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The punchless Philadelphia Phillies equaled their longest losing streak since 1956 Friday night when they dropped their 10th straight game 5-1 Friday night to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Rookie Don Landrum hit an inside the park home run in the seventh inning for the Cardinals, who broke up a scoreless mound duel between Ernie Broglio and the Phillies' John Buzhardt in the sixth with a three-run ruckus that featured Daryl Spencer's two-run single with the bases loaded.

Thus Broglio squared himself on the season at 3-3 while Buzhardt went down to his third defeat in a row. He has yet to win a game.

Landrum's first round - tripper as a Cardinal was something to remember. The outfielder walloped a long drive to right center. The ball hit the catwalk at the bottom of the scoreboard (10 feet above the ground) and rolled around out of Tony Gonzalez' reach just long enough for Landrum to speed around the bases.

Pancho Herrera ended 15 scoreless innings for the Phillies with a home run blast atop the roof in left center. It was his third hit of the campaign.

Pirates' Homers Halt Redleg Win String 8-5

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Home runs by Rocky Nelson and Dick Stuart powered the Pittsburgh Pirates to an 8-5 victory over Cincinnati Friday night and ended the Redlegs winning streak at nine games.

Nelson's three-run homer into the upper deck of the right field stands in the third put Pittsburgh in front 4-1.

It was the third home run for the season for Nelson, who had a perfect night at the plate with his homer, a double and a single in three trips to the plate.

Pinch hitter Stuart's homer over the left field wall in the fifth scored three runs, snapped a 5-5 tie and gave the Pirates their winning margin.

Yale Trackmen Seek 10th Team Title In 27 Years of Heptagonal Meetings

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Favored Yale seeks its 10th team title in 27 years of competition in the heptagonal games track and field meet on Franklin Field here Saturday.

The seven Ivy league colleges plus Army and Navy compete in the haptagonals, won last year by the Elis from New Haven. Harvard and Princeton are expected to push Yale for the title.

Five new meet records are possible under ideal conditions. On the basis of early Spring performance, marks could fall in the 220-yard dash, the 440, 880, mile and two mile. However, more rain is expected for this sodden area.

In the 220, won last year by the graduated Steve Snyder of Yale, the Service schools appear to have the leading contenders. Joe Almauger, Army Sophomore from New York City, and Pete Golwas of Navy are expected to fight it out.

YALE'S JIM STACK, defending champion, appears to have an edge in the 440 field, which includes last year's runnerup, Dick Edmunds of Princeton. In the 880, Tom Carroll defends for Yale against the challenge of Harvard's Fred Howard among others.

The mile features Mark Mullin of Harvard, who won last year in 4:14.8, but already this year has been timed in 4:11.1. Bob Mack of Yale, indoor heptagonal champ, along with Jed Fitzgerald and Ed Hamlin of Harvard should provide keen competition.

Yale's Mack is considered the stickout in the two mile run, but Brown's Bobby Lowe, Dartmouth's Tom Laris, and Bill Bachrach of Yale could push him to a record breaking time. Penn's Dick Hart set the record of 9:10.4 in 1950. Mack already this Spring has done 8:53.6.

Yale's Jay Luck, if he has recovered fully from a pulled muscle suffered in the recent Penn Relays, is being counted on by the Elis for winning performances in both the 120-high and the 220-low hurdles. He won both last year. Golwas, Almauger and Cornell's George Ekstrom are considered the top speedsters in the 100-yard dash.

Defending champions in field events include Penn's Bob Batdorf in the shot put and discus, Stan Doten of Harvard in the Hammer, and John Murray of Cornell in the pole vault.

Wynn Tosses 4-Hitter To Gain 287th Victory

CHICAGO (AP)—Veteran Early Wynn hurled the Chicago White Sox to a 2-1 victory Friday night, turning back the Kansas City A's with a nifty four-hitter.

The 41-year-old right-hander, oldest active player in the majors, recorded his third victory of the season against one loss and the 287th triumph of his illustrious career.

Chicago scored the winning run in the fifth on singles by Camilio Carreon and Wynn, a walk and an infield out by Nellie Fox.

Wynn gave up a game-starting double to shortstop Dick Howser which blossomed into Kansas City's only run and then was reached for harmless singles by Norm Siebern and Andy Carey in the second.

Wynn then retired 21 batters in a row before giving up his only walk to Jay Hankins in the ninth. Jerry Lumpe singled with two out in the ninth, but Norm Siebern flied out to end the game.

Johnson Primed To Run 9.2 '100'

FRESNO, Calif., (AP — Fleet Jamaican Dennis Johnson of San Jose State College heads a big bunch of potential track and field record breakers in Saturday night's West Coast Relays.

Given proper weather and track conditions, plus competition to push him to his best, the 21-year-old Johnson could become the first human ever to run the 100-yard dash in an official 9.2 seconds.

Already this year he has run four races in 9.3 and one wind-aided effort in 9.2.

Johnson won't be able to hog the show with such other standouts as Shot Putter Dallas Long of the University of Southern California and veteran Discus Spinner Rink Babka.

The day-long relays brought a record entry list of 1,808 ranging from local grade school youngsters to some of the Nation's best in the open classes.

Mike Souchak Leads Colonial Field; Three Tie for 2d, 2 Strokes Back

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Mike Souchak played cautiously in ablustery wind Friday for a par 70 that snatched the lead at 36 holes in the $40,000 Colonial National Invitation tournament.

The big football player, who won the Colonial tournament five years ago, turned in a steady round for 139 while Kel Nagle, the Australian who led the first 18 holes with a record-tying 65 that included a hole-in-one, soared to a 76. Nagle left a trial of missed greens and sour putting.

Souchak pulled into a two-stroke lead as a 20 to 30-miles-per-hour wind caused scores to soar all over the 7041-yard Colonial country club course.

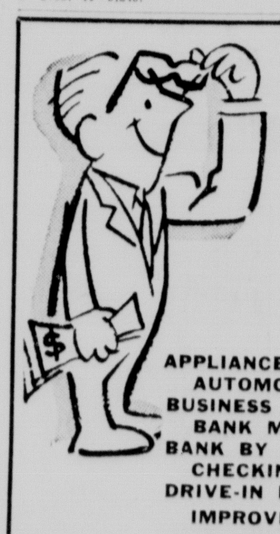

Arnold Palmer, the tournament favorite, complained of poor putting but had a 73 that put him into a second place tie with Nagle and Bill Casper, all with 141.

DOUG FORD, who made the first nine in 33, offered a big threat at first but took 38 coming in and was at 142 along with Gene Littler and Ernie Vossler. Ford had a 71, Littler 70 and Vossler 71.

Souchak observed his 34th birthday here Wednesday and got a cake from Colonial country club. He has won one tournament this year — Greensboro, N.C.

Big Mike said he was scored stiff of the capricious wind and "I played away from all flags and traps. I was driving well and knew that in this wind the most important thing was getting the ball over the course, not putting. I could see that the others were having their troubles because there were no signs with red on them. So I just played as conservatively as I could."

Starting the second round Friday, Nagle was in front with 65 while National Amateur Champion Deane Beman, Palmer and Ben Hogan were tied at 68.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

R. H. PEARSON, of Denver, Colo., tells of a Cornish miner named Jan whose pal, Bill, was missing one morning at the mine. "Where's Bill?" asked the foreman. "Bill's got hisself a broken leg," reported Jan. "How did he get it?" asked the foreman.

"Blamed if I know," admitted Jan, "'e didn't get it 'ere, so I figger it must 'ave been broke afore 'e left 'ome."

Another time this same Jan fell into a puddle in one of the mine shafts. "I was walkin' along mindin' my own business," he explained, "when I come to this 'ere puddle. I stepped on the plank to cross it and the plank wasn't there, so down I went, plank and all!"

Inside You And Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M.D.

Is Meningitis Serious?

WHAT IS "spinal meningitis?" Is it serious?

Cushioning the brain and spinal cord inside their bony containers are three layers of padding called "meninges". Any infection that pours germs into your circulation can infect these meninges into meningitis.

Dr. Fern

Blood vessels thicken, meninges swell and a thick discharge oozes onto the brain and spinal cord. But the bony case has no give and so a tremendous pressure builds up.

Your head throbs, your back aches and every nerve feels raw and inflamed. Fever skyrockets and then plummets as you sink into shock.

Stretching the swollen meninges squeezes raw nerve endings. That's why a stiff neck keeps the head from bending.

Relaxes Nerves

If the head is bent forward, the meningitis-sufferer automatically draws up his knees. This relaxes those giant sciatic nerves which pull on the lower end of the meninges.

Muscle spasm also keeps the victim's knee bent when his leg is held high. Straightening the knee would also tense the sciatic nerve.

Symptoms vary. Older children and adults with all these signs may turn out to have some other minor infection which somehow irritates the meninges. This false meningitis is called meningismus in the United States and meningism in Britain.

Baby may show only a tense, bulging soft spot on the top of his head.

Pinpointing The Germ

Only a spinal tap and spinal fluid examination can distinguish between innocent meningismus and serious meningitis. The laboratory examination to pinpoint the germ may take days. Meanwhile, the doctor uses all available weapons to battle this life-threatening infection.

Modern germ-killers, oxygen tents and intravenous feedings have given the meningitis-sufferer new odds. Today, 9 out of 10 recover.

Early treatment gives you even better odds. Don't waste valuable time trying home remedies. Mustard plasters, ice packs and aspirin have yet to cure a single case!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of The Mercury.

Contractor Convinces Businessmen That He Has $687,998 in Bank

PATCHOGUE, N. Y. (AP)—All Atillo Santoro had was a piece of paper, but he just couldn't stop showing it.

He said he started to get a breathing spell from his creditors but then it "got to snowballing."

"I didn't know how to stop," police quoted him.

He ordered three Thunderbirds, three Oldsmobiles, three Cadillacs (with air-conditioning and special colors), a 26-foot cabin cruiser, a 24-foot cabin cruiser and then he started thinking about taking a world cruise.

* * *

So he asked three different travel agencies to arrange 1½-year cruises, with two-week stopovers in most countries. Such a cruise would come to around $70,000. And then he told one agency to engage a tutor—at $10,000 a year — for his three youngsters.

Now Santoro, 47, a contractor at nearby Shoreham, is behind bars, serving a 30-day sentence for disorderly conduct. And salesmen all over Long Island are weeping for lost commissions.

Santoro's piece of paper said he was worth $687,998. But as a matter of fact Santoro is in debt —about as much in debt as the average man, Sgt. Robert McCleary of the Suffolk County police estimates.

McCleary says Santoro's trouble started with the heavy winter snows. That slowed up Santoro's contracting business and he began worrying about the mortgage on his car and on his home.

Santoro told McCleary that when things piled up on him he decided his creditors wouldn't press him if it got out that he was rich.

So he snitched a letterhead while applying for a small loan at the Suffolk County Federal Savings & Loan Association, he said, and on it he wrote a credit letter, making out he had that $687,998 on deposit with the association.

Using that, he started ordering things to build up his credit. It certainly worked. McCleary says Santoro's rating soared so fast during a three-week period that several business firms wanted him to invest. One firm told McCleary it would have been delighted if Santoro had invested $250,000 with them.

It wasn't that Santoro was particularly impressive in appearance. He's about 5 feet 9, weighs 165 pounds, has a weatherbeaten face and rough hands, which McCleary says it is obvious he didn't get counting money. It was that letter.

Through it all, Santoro didn't hurt anybody much. In fact, McCleary thinks the only money lost was the tab for a meal one boat salesman spent on the contractor-client.

For Santoro never took delivery on any of the things he ordered. He would sign a contract for, say, a cruiser and then remark: "I'll be back in a few days with a certified check for a down payment." He never returned and nothing was delivered.

McCleary, who says he hasn't had the nerve to talk the thing over yet with Mrs. Santoro, picked him up while he was wearing overalls and working on a job.

After pleading guilty in Brookhaven Town Court to what McCleary calls a "catchall" misdemeanor ordinance that included "outraging public decency," Santoro was led away to jail.

"I didn't really do anybody any harm," he remarked.

McCleary agrees.

Professional Suicide Stoppers Try to Keep Despondents Talking

CHICAGO (AP)—You're a professional suicide stopper. Your telephone rings and an excited caller says, 'I've made up my mind. I've got a razor and I'm going to slash my wrists."

What do you do?

First, you maintain telephone contact, one way or another. If that persons hangs up, it's probably all over.

Then you try to get enough information to size up the emergency.

If the caller is a woman and fairly youngish, your chances of saving a life are better than if it had been a middle aged man. Men generally are greater suicide risks.

You know you have one ace up your sleeve. If the caller desperately wanted to commit suicide, no telephone call would have made.

The call actually is an appeal for help, so you offer it—fast.

In a calm and hopeful tone, you tell the caller that things rarely are as bad as they seem; that there should be one more real effort to find a solution before calling it quits.

Your best chance of stopping a suicide is to motivate the caller to take some other form of action —to talk over the problems first with you.

Then, as a safeguard, you remind the caller the telephone connection might be broken off by accident. You try to get his other telephone number and name. Next, the names of relatives or friends, just in case persuasion doesn't work.

The operation of the Suicide Prevention Center of Los Angeles was described at the annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association Friday by Marvin N. Kaphan, a psychiatric social worker, and Dr. Robert E. Litman, psychiatrist-director. The center was established in 1958 as an experiment with the support of a five-year grant from the U. S. Public Health Service.

The center has become widely known in three years and receives a fairly large number of calls for help, from persons threatening suicide, and from anxious relatives of persons acting suspiciously.

* * *

The calls are taken routinely by a social worker who can consult —if there is time—with a psychiatrist in the center.

Kaphan and Litman gave this rundown on the first 100 telephone calls received at the center:

No caller committed suicide on the spot, but one man and one woman did later. On the original call, 58 per cent of the 48 males involved were evaluated as serious risks, but only 33 per cent of the 52 women callers fell into that class.

But after the callers agreed to interviews, made immediately or later, only 3 women were considered serious risks compared with 13 men.

The center follows this practice. After "emergency first aid" is given by telephone, the caller is placed in one of two categories. If the threat seems imminent or serious, he or she is seen very soon in a face-to-face interview with someone from the center. If the danger of suicide is considered not serious, the caller is directed to other channels for treatment.

Tension In Household Is Called Reason for Crying of Infants

TORONTO (AP)—What makes a baby cry?

Some cry because of an atmosphere of tension in the household, the Ontario Medical Association was told Friday. Dr. D. L. Bastedo, Kitchener pediatrician, said there is an increase in colic and indigestion among infants and suggested it is due to environment.

"Such fear and anxiety motivating and underlying the emotional disturbances might well be related to society's incessant drive for sundry amenities and frills," he said.

Dr. J. J. Slavens of Toronto said a baby's behavior "is a mirror that reflects what is going on around him."

"Families cannot get along without some bickering," he said, "but if they kept in mind the side effects of irritable behavior on a baby they would think twice before giving vent to it."

Dr. A. M. Bryans, professor of pediatrics at Queen's University, noting that babies also cry from hunger, suggested enlarging nipple holes in the bottle.

Prince Philip Succeeds As Diesel Engineer

LONDON (AP)—Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, tried his hand as a diesel locomotive engineer Friday and achieved a speed of 80 miles an hour.

Philip is better known as an airplane pilot and horse rider, but he handled the diesel on a 61-minute run from London to Windsor without mishap.

He wore a lounge suit and declined to don an engineer's peaked cap offered him by Alf Perfect, the regular engineer.

"Great trip," said the prince as the five-coach train pulled up at Windsor, where the royal family planned to spend the weekend. "She handles very well."

"I've known worse drivers than him," commented Perfect.

"I thought he did pretty well, for a first-timer," said fireman Clive Bousfield.
